ROOSEVELT HAS ABUSED POWER, FORAKER SAYS

Ohio Senator Replies to President's Letter on Federal Appointments.

TELLS SENATE SECRETS

Reminds Associates of Patronage That Was Held Up Behind Closed Doors.

LETTERS ARE SHOWN

Speaker Calls Them Conclusive Evidence That Someone Plays Politics.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Senator Foraker of Ohio took the floor in the Senate this afternoon on a "question of personal privilege," and answered the statements made in the letter of President Roosevelt to William Dudley Foulke of Indiana with reference to Federal appointments in Ohio.

Mr. Foraker opened his remarks by saying that on Jan. 14, 1908, the Senate in executive session, at the instance of the two senators from Ohio, refused to confirm certain postmasters' appointments which had been made by the President.

Appointments Held Up.

"Urged by our friends of the press as to the reasons why we had taken such action," said Mr. Foraker, "I made a statement in about these words: 'The action taken meant that there would not be in Ohio any further prostitution of patronage for political purposes without being resented.'"

It was announced then that the President would make a full and detailed answer to all the charges of that kind.

Mr. Foraker referred to the President's statement published today, and said that he did not propose to go into details in his reply to that statement, because the appointment of a postmaster outside the community in which he lived is not of interest to the public. He read a part of the President's statement, in which the latter declared that no presidential candidate had been favored in any appointments.

Public Is Interested.

"These general propositions are important," said Mr. Foraker, referring to the President's words. "While the people of the country are not interested in specific details of appointments, they are interested in the general propositions enunciated by the President; they are interested in knowing that the appointments are made with an eye single to the good of the public service. The President by this statement recognizes the importance of observing these propositions.

"It is difficult to prove cases of this character, because ordinarily there is no evidence reduced to writing bearing on them.

"But, fortunately, we have one case in Ohio where we have written testimony. I do not charge anybody with bad faith. I supposed all the while that the President was acting on recommendations made to him."

The "Written Record."

He referred to the recent appointment of Charles H. Bryson as Postmaster at Athens, O., who, he said, was appointed without his solicitation upon recommendation of Representative Alfred Douglass. He then read from a local paper an interview with Mr. Bryson, in which he stated that Taft lost his following in Ohio and Foraker had greatly grown in strength.

The prize for identifying the faceless picture of Spring was awarded today to the Weather Man. He wrote: "His name, the poets rhyme with sing, or wing, or bing, or anything. He's the old friend to whom we cling; he's a real prince, is Gentle Spring." The forecast: Rain tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature; east and southeast winds; minimum temperature tonight about 38 degrees.

Up goes the river—it's 3.7 now, a rise of .4.

WOULD YOU BE PRESIDENT? DIET ON BUTTERMILK!

It Will Prolong Your Life Until You Can Be Elected—Ask Fairbanks.

ST. LOUISANS LIKE IT

Eminent Foreign Authority Discovers Its Value, Long Recognized Here.

On the very day that Taft arrived in St. Louis something happened which caused many to ask:

"Is Fairbanks press agent for buttermilk or is buttermilk press agent for Fairbanks?"

Finid Thins the Hair.

Diligent investigation showed that buttermilk as a steady diet thins the hair on the top of the head and makes it grow on the chin. At first blush this looked like a clear case on Fairbanks, but further researches showed that there are men in St Louis who are not bald, and have no whiskers, despite the fact that they drink buttermilk.

On the other hand, there are beardless, bald-headed men who drink buttermilk occasionally, but not habitually.

But that is not the point.

Coincident with the arrival of Taft, a cablegram reached St. Louis, announcing that Prof. Elie Metchinikoff, successor of the renowned Dr. Pasteur as head of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, has been burning midnight oil at the trust price of 17 cents a gallon and has found that buttermilk is the finest thing in the world to prolong life.

When Jeptha D. Howe heard this he said:

"Now I know why Fairbanks drinks it. He hopes to live long enough to be nominated for the presidency."

Thinks It Fortifies.

Prof. Metchinikoff is one of the doctors who has helped the Czar of Russia to live as long as he has. He thinks that a man well fortified with buttermilk has nothing to fear, even from bombs.

As a tonic for men who have passed middle life there is nothing like buttermilk, says this eminent authority. It prevents the hardening of tissues which accompany old age and hasten death.

Rufus J. Lackland, president of the Boatmen's Bank, the most remarkable active old man in St. Louis, is strong in his indorsement of buttermilk. He is 88 years old, but his brain is not only active, but sparkling, and he does his full share of work in presiding over a great financial institution.

"Buttermilk?" he said. "Why I would not be without it. I have a farm out here in the country and I spend my week-ends there. The first thing I ask for buttermilk and I drink it from Saturday night till Monday morning.

As the interviewer was walking away Mr. Lackland detained him.

"I am for Taft," he said.

James Campbell, who won't tell anybody how old he is, drinks buttermilk whenever he can get it. He thinks it has kept him as young as he looks. Former Gov. E. O. Stanard is another lover of the beverage. As a tonic in the springtime, he says, it has sassafras beaten to a standstill. And there's a reason. Dr. R. F. Amyx says that as a food for men who are getting along in years there is nothing better than buttermilk.

So Easy to Digest.

"The main reason," he said, "is that in buttermilk there is less waste product than in almost any other food. The cells and tissues of the body are not called upon to do excessive work in digesting it. The tissues will last longer on a diet of buttermilk than on anything else. It is well known that many persons drink buttermilk as a spring tonic. There is nothing better.

"In the spring many persons think they have biliousness, but there is no such thing. They have simply overworked their systems by eating heavy food during the winter. The liver has nothing to do with it. Buttermilk is what they need. It must be fresh, though, and it must be made from pure milk. Otherwise it might cause ptomaine poisoning. I should say that for a man more than 60 years old good buttermilk would be a much better food than meat."

MAN KILLS GIRL IN CAR AFTER A NIGHT IN SLUMS

Shoots Her During Quarrel Over a Bottle of Champagne and Escapes.

TWO OTHER GIRLS HELD

Identity of Victim and Her Men Companions Puzzles New York Police.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A young woman of the Tenderloin, known to her companions only as Queenie, about 27 years old, and decidedly pretty, was shot and almost instantly killed while riding on a northbound Second avenue car at Eighth street early today.

A young man who was sitting opposite the girl fired the shot, the police say, and then dashing from the car, escaped.

The tragedy followed a night of slumming in Chinatown. Two girls and two men were with the victim. The two men, one of whom fired the fatal shots, escaped.

Identity a Mystery.

Considerable mystery surrounds the shooting. So far the police have not been able to discover exactly who the victim was. The two girls who were with "Queenie" gave their names as Mable Cuzzee, 10 Valley Brook avenue, Lyndhurst, N. J., and Helen Sullivan, 228 West Twenty-fifth street. They are held as witnesses. They declare they did not know either of the men and said they knew very little about the dead girl.

They met Queenie in a resort in West Twenty-sixth street last night, they said, and went with her to Chinatown, where the night was spent in the cafes. During the early morning, they say, "Queenie" had become acquainted with the two men and all started uptown together.

Carried Bottle of Champagne.

"Queenie" was carrying a bottle of champagne. The party made so much noise that both the conductor and motorman had to caution them to be quiet under threats to call the police. One of the men apparently was in bad humor because Queenie would not give him the champagne.

At Eighth street the man suddenly leaned across the car toward the girl and made a grab at the champagne bottle. Queenie dodged him and a moment later a shot was heard. The bullet entered the girl's left breast and she died shortly after reaching Bellevue. All the passengers except the two girls hurried from the car and disappeared.

The detectives say that a black mark found on the thumb of one of the girls is a powder stain.

The police declare the two girls now held are not telling the truth.

GIRL KILLS SWEETHEART WHO BEAT HER; FAINTS AT DEATH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 10.—Pearl Cunningham, 21 years old, stabbed her sweetheart, John Perry, to death at midnight because in a fit of jealousy he struck her. The killing occurred at her sister's home.

She did not know her knife thrust had gone home and fainted when she was told today of Perry's death. After she had been lodged in Jail she said:

"John came to sister's home and said he would kill everybody if I didn't go out with him. He began to beat me. After he hit me in the face I struck him, but I did not know the blow would be fatal."

NAUGHTON CASE CALLED; SAGER OUT OF CITY

Circuit Attorney Away to Attend Taft Banquet During Trial.

HEARING IS POSTPONED

Long Absent House Clerk in Court to Answer Bribe Charges.

Circuit Attorney Sager was not in Judge Fisher's court Monday when the case of Daniel E. Naughton, assistant clerk of the House of Delegates, charged with being an accessory after the fact to the bribery of Delegates Priesmeyer and Warner was called. The Naughton case is one of the most important now on the criminal docket.

Mr. Sager went to Kansas City Sunday night to attend the banquet of the Young Republican Club, and left the case in the hands of Assistant Circuit Attorney Loomis C. Johnson. It was continued at the request of the defense and set for trial Feb. 17.

Grant Gillespie, assistant Circuit Attorney in Judge Fisher's court, has not returned from a prolonged visit to the Fourteenth Congressional District, where he was taking an active part in the fight to prevent the delegates being instructed for Taft for President.

Naughton in Court.

Naughton and several of his witnesses, and all of the State's witnesses were in court. Naughton was indicted by the December grand jury, after he had refused to answer questions regarding the $500 which he is said to have taken to Sam Weismann the morning after Henry Ascher says he gave the money to Delegate Priesmeyer, at the direction of Delegate Warner, to procure the passage of a garage bill.

The Warner and Priesmeyer cases have not been set for trial, although it was expected that they would be called for a setting in Judge Muench's court Monday.

Sager went to Kansas City in the special train that had been provided by John B. Owen, manager of the Niedringhause anti-Taft campaign in St. Louis, to accompany Secretary Taft to Kansas City.

Owen is the Circuit Attorney's highest-priced clerk, being paid $200 a month, but he has been devoting practically all of his time to politics for the last six weeks, all the time drawing his salary from the city. He, too, went with the politicians to Kansas City.

Busy in Politics.

With Sager, Gillespie and Owen all absent on political missions the Circuit Attorney's office had to work with a limited force Monday. Gillespie has been so active in politics during the last six weeks that many ugly rumors are floating around the city concerning his connection with the Eleventh Congressional District affairs.

He is a candidate for delegate to the National Convention. He has been working hand in glove with Justice of the Peace George Riechmann, who is the political master of Herman Gevers, one of the House of Delegates combine, which the grand jury has been so actively pursuing.

John B. Owen is the political mentor of Alexander Bourg of the Sixth Ward, another reputed member of the combine. The Circuit Attorney's office is closely allied with the politicians who control the combine which has been under grand jury investigation.

Members of the combine are said to have several "friends at court" in the Circuit Attorney's office, and to be in a position to get inside information as to what is being done there.

GIRL WHOM FIANCE HAS LEFT ALONE TO FACE LARCENY CHARGE

PETTY LARCENY CHARGE AGAINST BRIDE-ELECT

Alleged Trousseau Thief Formally Held With Companion.

A warrant charging petty larceny was issued Monday morning against Hattie Paul and Amanda Goebel, who were arrested Saturday evening in a department store with about $20 worth of clothing concealed in their coats, pockets, muffs and in parcels which each carried.

Miss Paul and Miss Goebel were released on bonds of $200 apiece, furnished by a professional bondsman, and left police headquarters with Mrs. Paul, who appeared in their behalf. The girls will return to Collinsville until their hearing in the Court of Criminal Correction Tuesday.

Miss Paul told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday morning that she had only seen the man her father had planned for her to marry twice. She consented to the arrangement without any courtship. She is 24 years old and had intended going to Collinsville for a family reunion Sunday to arrange for the final details of the approaching wedding. "Julius" has not appeared to intercede for his fiancee.

"My father thought I ought to marry this young man," Miss Paul said. "He showed Julius my picture and I guess Julius fell in love with me then, he has been so anxious to marry me. I was going over to meet him yesterday. If everything had been satisfactory my mother and I were coming over to buy my trousseau next Monday. I have always dressed well and I have paid for a piano out of my earnings.

"I guess I would have loved Julius well enough to marry him, but now, of course, I cannot look anyone in the face. I would end it all if I could. Of course, it will all be over with Julius now. I shall go right back to work. I can still get that to do, I guess."

PRESIDENT IGNORED IN NAVY BILL BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

His Plan for Four Battleships Disregarded—Only Two Will Be Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The House Committee on Naval Affairs today voted to recommend an appropriation for the building of two battleships of the Delaware class, instead of the four battleships recommended by the Navy Department and urged by the President.

"STOP LICKING YOUR FINGERS," DOCTORS' ORDER

Medical Society Passes Resolution to Prevent Spread of Germs.

Stop licking your fingers!

This is the command of the Medical Society of the City Hospital Alumni to St. Louis waiters, bundle wrappers, bank clerks, postage stamp sellers and street car conductors.

Disease is conveyed by the practice of finger licking, declares a resolution adopted by the society, copies of which have been sent to the Postmaster and the Board of Health.

Dr. W. H. Luedde, secretary of the society, signed the resolution. He said Monday to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

Spit on Transfers.

"Our street car company is doing its best to prevent spitting on car floors, and yet it permits its conductors, regardless of infectious diseases they may have, to spit on the transfers they hand out. This is done by the common practice of licking the fingers in handling the transfers.

"An actual test has proven that the germs of tuberculosis were on a transfer handed out by a conductor who licked his fingers before handling it.

"The same danger exists when paper money is taken from bank clerks who lick their fingers, or stamps from postal clerks who follow the practice. In bakeries the danger is perhaps greatest. There the practice of licking the fingers in tying up bundles is common, and these fingers are often placed on food almost immediately afterward."

Loss of Position Urged.

The society's resolution states that "employes in official life or in civil or other positions addicted to this habit, who, in the performance of their duties as stamp sellers, postmen, clerks, cashiers, salespeople, waiters, conductors, etc., persist in so doing after notice and warning, should be deprived of their positions."

Postmaster Wyman said Monday that the practice of finger licking at the stamp windows of the Postoffice was forbidden some time ago, in compliance with an order from the Postmaster-General.

"The medical society is right in protesting against this practice," said the Postmaster, "but I do not believe it exists in this office. Stamp sellers at the main and branch offices have positive orders not to lick their fingers, but to use sponges or rags."

MOB WINS BATTLE WITH TROOPS AND LYNCHES A NEGRO

Two Thousand Men Take White Girl's Assailant From Militia at Brookhaven, Miss.

HANGED AT COURTHOUSE; JUDGE'S PLEA IN VAIN

Farmers Walked for Miles to Join Lynching Party, Which Gathered at Daybreak and Was Unmasked—Victim Had Been Taken There for Trial.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Feb. 10.—Eli Pigot, a negro, who asaulted Miss Williams, a young white woman, in this county several weeks ago, was taken from the Jackson military company and a posse of deputies this morning and hanged from a telegraph pole within 100 yards of the Courthouse where he was to have been tried. The military company and the posse were overpowered after a battle by a mob of more than 2000 persons. Shots were fired and two members of the mob were wounded.

Pigot reached here shortly after 7 o'clock from Jackson in charge of Sheriff Frank Greer, who headed the armed escort formed by the Capital Light Guards, ordered into service by Gov. Noel to protect the negro.

When the train stopped at the depot and the Sheriff and the soldier escort disembarked with the prisoner, the mob surged around them and a fierce hand-to-hand fight ensued. The soldiers clubbed many members of the mob.

Two Battles With Mob.

The fight lasted about five minutes. The officers and soldiers managed to retain custody of the negro and resumed their journey to the Courthouse. When they were within 100 yards of the building the mob, which by this time had been thoroughly organized, charged the officers and soldiers and another fierce battle ensued.

The mob finally got possession of the prisoner. Pigot was dragged about 50 yards away. A member of the mob carried a rope and the negro was quickly strung up to the arm of a telegraph pole. The mob then riddled his body with bullets. Several hundred shots were fired.

Mob Gathered at Daybreak.

The Jackson military company was under command of Capt. A. L. Fairley, and 35 men were in line. It seems that the soldiers were frightened by the extraordinary size of the mob.

The mob began gathering here at daybreak, farmers coming in town on horses, in wagons and on foot. Nearly every citizen of the Ruth neighborhood, where the assault on Miss Williams occurred about one month ago, was in town.

None of the members of the mob was masked, and some of the foremost citizens of the county were seen in the gathering. The townspeople took no part in the affair.

Judge Williamson, who was to have presided at the trial of Pigot, witnessed his death at the hands of the mob. He pleaded that the negro be allowed to go to trial, but his plea had no effect.

Three Respites, Then Is Hanged.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 10—Henry Thaxton, the negro who was convicted of killing W. E. Hunstucker, white, two years ago, was hanged here today after having been respited thrice by the Governor. He mounted the scaffold smiling and began his speech on the gallows by saying: "Friends, I am here once again," and would up with "thanking you for your attention." He said bad company had got him into trouble.

MISSISSIPPI LYNCHINGS.

From 1885 to 1905	298
1905	17
1906	12
1907	11
Total	338

Even burglary is a crime punishable by lynching, according to the Mississippi unwritten code. Three negroes were taken from the Jail at Tunica, Oct. 11, 1907, after they had confessed, and were hanged from a telephone pole.

Another lynching occurred the same month, the offense this time being a negro telephoning to white women. At Vanvleet, Henry Sykes, an Indiana negro, was caught by a decoy message. He escaped, however, and was chased into the swamps, where he was captured after being wounded. He was dragged back to the city, where he was hanged by a small crowd of men.

FLEET CONQUERS STORM IN STRAITS; SEEN BY STEAMER

Warships, With Chilean as Pathfinder, Form in Extended Order and Progress Finely.

PUNTA ARENAS, Strait of Magellan, Feb. 10.—The Pacific Navigation Co. steamship Orita, which arrived here this morning, reports having passed the American fleet in the strait at 6 o'clock last evening, 12 miles east of Cape Pillar. The Chilean cruiser Cucabucto was leading. The weather was very stormy.

Owing to the heavy weather, the warships were spread out over a considerable stretch, but all seemed to be making splendid progress, in spite of the storm.

FATHER FRIEDEN IS PRESIDENT OF ST. LOUIS U.

Former Provincial Succeeds Educator Now Ill—Rev. O'Boyle Not Assigned.

The Rev. Father J. F. Frieden, S. J., was formally installed Monday as president of St. Louis University, to succeed Father Rogers, who has been ill for several months in Cincinnati.

Since Father Rogers was incapacitated for the duties of president the position has been held by the Rev. Father Francis J. O'Boyle. It has not yet been decided what position Father O'Boyle will now take.

Father Frieden was provincial of the Missouri province, with headquarters in St. Louis from 1890 till 1894.

BEACH HARGIS, PATRICIDE, IN COURT; WAIVES EXAMINATION

Son Who Slew Kentucky Feudist Clings to Self-Defense Plea.

JACKSON, Ky., Feb. 10.—Notwithstanding a constant downpour of rain, the Circuit Court room was crowded today when Beach Hargis, charged with the murder of his father, Judge James Hargis, was brought before County Judge Taubee for examining trial.

He showed no signs of a breakdown. Judge Redwine for the defendant said they desired to waive examination since the Circuit Court session is to begin here next Monday. He asked leave to give bail, but this was not allowed and the prisoner was turned over to the jailer to await the action of the grand jury.

It is believed that the defense will be insanity, although young Hargis still insists that he killed his father in self-defense.

POISON THREAT LAID TO WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN

Neighbor Tells Coroner's Jury of Remarks by Mrs. Wilson.

DYING, ACCUSED WIFE

Labor Leader Swore He Was Attacked From Behind.

Mrs. Estella V. Wilson, charged with complicity in the fatal shooting of her husband, John T. Wilson, by her brother, Frank J. Engleman, threatened Wilson's life two years ago with poison, according to testimony at the Coroner's inquest Monday, given by Mrs. Alice C. Mulkey, 3006 Missouri avenue. Mrs. Mulkey is president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, of which Wilson was founder and president.

"Mrs. Wilson said to me," testified Mrs. Mulkey, "that when she got ready to poison her husband she would give him a dose which would finish him."

She made this threat, according to Mrs. Mulkey, while discussing Wilson's assertion that he was poisoned by fish eaten at home one night, of which no other member of the family partook.

In the first of Wilson's ante-mortem statements, made while he was being removed from his home last Wednesday night in an ambulance to the City Hospital, he declared to Policeman Charles E. Duncan, according to the officer's testimony, that he did not strike his wife or provoke her to assault him. He asserted that she struck him from behind, that her boy, Frank Wagner, jumped on his back, and that he was shot while both were clinging to him. This charge Wilson confirmed with an awful oath.

"God being my helper," Wilson said, according to the policeman, "this statement is true. If it is not true may I be damned in the regions prepared for unfaithful, ungrateful hypocrites and adventurers. My religion is," he added, "that the time to do right is all the time, the place to do right is everywhere, and that the people to be fair and square with are all of God's children."

The inquest, which began at 9 a. m., was continued to Tuesday morning after a score of witnesses had testified. Mrs. Wilson was present, in a highly nervous state, and will testify tomorrow. Her son, Frank, was the only eyewitness of the tragedy who has testified. He repeated his statement to the Post-Dispatch that he went to the aid of his mother when Wilson attacked her; and that Engleman ran downstairs and shot him when she and the boy screamed to him for aid.

Neighbors told of hearing shohts and screams, and finding Mrs. Wilson prostrated in the library, begging that Wilson not be allowed to get up, as he would kill her.

On the other hand, Wilson entreated, they said, to be taken to another house, saying there was a man in his home in the guise of a friend, who would return and kill him.

W. O. McNaughton, a railroad man, with whom Engleman spent several hours Wednesday afternoon, said Engleman told him he came to St. Louis to arrange for his sister to live separately from her husband, pending the divorce suit which Wilson filed Jan. 29, his forty-seventh birthday.

It was planned to hold the funeral tomorrow afternoon from Ogden's Undertaking Parlors at 3140 Easton avenue to Bellefontaine Cemetery, but the continuance of the inquest may disturb these arrangements.

Peculiar Way to Heal Sores

That it is often by the simplest means that flesh rashes and sores are healed is shown by the quickness with which X-Zalia acts on the flesh. In cases where the most powerful of metallic salts make no impression in healing the flesh this soothing external liquid accomplishes the most wonderful results. This liquid, which is sold by druggists and put up by the X-Zalia Corporation of Boston, immediately takes out all the soreness of a rash and soon heals any eruption. It contains only harmless vegetable ingredients. It is certainly wonderful the way this liquid acts directly on the flesh.

Comptroller Declares Plan of Offering Securities Directly to People Is Failure.

The sale of municipal bonds, in denominations of $100, $500 and $1000, for building the new insane asylum and the free bridge, has not been a success, according to Comptroller Player.

Although the bonds have been on sale since Jan. 25, and have been extensively advertised in St. Louis, the East and the Southwest, Mr. Player said the aggregate sales would not be more than $100,000 of the $2,000,000 offered.

The Comptroller offered $1,000,000 of the Asylum bonds and $1,000,000 of the free bridge bonds at 3.65 per cent interest. The condition of the money market and the low interest rate are given as the reason why the bonds were not taken.

The four big St. Louis trust companies had the bonds for sale, as well as the city, but they had little demand for them.

ALL FACTIONS NOW TO TAFT IN ST. LOUIS

Secretary, Here for Five Hours, Seems Confident He Has Delegation Bottled.

If Secretary of War William H. Taft knew that he was in the hands of the political Philistines during the greater part of his stay in St. Louis Sunday night, he had enough confidence in his Sampsonian strength to look pleasant through it all. He took good care not to let any Delilah get near him with the scissors, having been several times warned that this was a particularly dangerous season of the year to be turned loose among St. Louis Republicans.

The big Secretary of War reached St. Louis at 6:15 p. m. He got away safely at 11:38 p. m. for Kansas City, where he will speak Monday night at the annual banquet of the Young Republican Club.

Welcomed by All Factions.

It had been rumored that Jeptha D. Howe, chairman of the Republican City Committee, chief shouter for Taft in St. Louis, had gone East to warn the Secretary of War to be exceedingly careful during his stay in St. Louis.

When the train got into Union Station Secretary Taft rolled out of the Pullman, surrounded by the Republicans whom Howe has characterized as the secret enemies of Taft, while openly professing friendship for him. Chairman Dickey of the State Committee, Joseph McCoy, a recent Taft convert; Fred Essen, the St. Louis County "boss," who is opposed to Taft instructions, and several other shorter Republican candles surrounded him.

Ex-Secretary of the Interior Ethan Allen Hitchcock and Charles Nagel, both bosom friends of Secretary Taft, met the party at the station. The Taft train came into the coldest, clammiest part of the station, but the atmosphere was decidedly more chilly after Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Nagel had captured Secretary Taft. They bustled him along the platform and through the midway to a carriage, very much to the disgust of the Niedringhaus faction.

Niedringhaus, who has "sicked" the State Committee on Jeptha D. Howe, did not go East to meet Secretary Taft. He was at the station wearing a tall silk hat, and had an automobile in readiness to take Taft to the Planters.

"Will you ride down in my automobile?" said Mr. Niedringhaus, bowing politely.

Niedringhaus "Stung."

"Mr. Hitchcock," replied Mr. Nagel, who doesn't take the political fight at all seriously, "has a carriage for the Secretary. He will ride down in that."

"Stung!" shouted one of Howe's supporters from the Twenty-seventh Ward, as Niedringhaus got red in the face and replied: "Oh, very well."

STEEL MILLS IN EAST ST. LOUIS TO REOPEN SOON

Partial Force Going on Tuesday and Workmen Expect Steady Jobs.

OTHER PLANTS SHORT

General Curtailment of Laboring Force Results From Commercial Dullness.

Hope is held out that the opening Tuesday night of the Republic Iron and Steel mills in East St. Louis will be a permanent one, and that steady work will be provided for 1100, and eventually for 1600 men, the full quota of employes.

The mills have opened several times in the last few months, only to close again after a few days. They have not been run steadily since last October.

Several large orders are now on hand, and the owners of the mills hope more will be received. The 12-inch mill, employing 700, will open Tuesday night, and other departments, employing 400 men, will open Wednesday. Several of the departments will run day and night.

Two hundred more men were put to work Monday in the National Enameling and Stamping Co. steel mill at Granite City. The plant is now employing 70 per cent of its full working force of 3600, but on partial time, amounting to about half-time on an average. It is hoped to bring work up to full time within a few weeks.

The American Steel Mills, with 2000 employes, are using only 900; the glucose works, with a capacity of 2000, are working 900, and the Commonwealth Steel Co. is working 900 of its 1400 employes. All are following the policy of gradual enlargement of working forces.

AMERICAN CAR COMPANY TO LAY OFF 3500 HANDS AT ONCE

Because of a lack of orders from railroad companies, the plant of the American Car and Foundry Co., at Madison, Ill., employing 3500 men, will be shut down within the next ten days, according to the statement of an official of the company to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday.

Recently the railroads reported that 375,000 freight cars were lying idle on the tracks. This fact, coupled with the inability of the railroad companies to float bonds or other new securities at this time, is given as the reason for the foundry company's action.

The works of the company at St. Charles, where 3000 men are employed, will be kept running at least 60 days longer.

"We employ an aggregate of 25,000 men," said an American Car and Foundry Co. official, "and about one-fourth of this number are idle at the present time.

"Our St. Louis plant, with 3000 hands, will be kept busy until August, as we have orders on hand sufficient to run until then."

Many Ohio Plants Reopen.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 10.—Between 5000 and 6000 men returned to work at the Lorain plant of the National Tube Co. today. The plant had been closed for several months. Under normal conditions about 8500 men are employed.

Three mills of the Stark Rolling Mill Co. at Canton resumed work today, and in Akron the B. F. Goodrich Co. has added 250 men to the force, and other rubber manufacturing plants are increasing their lists. The tube plant of the Mark Manufacturing Co., employing 700 men, resumed work in Zanesville and the Roseville pottery, employing 600 men, reopened at half time.

Brooklyn Bank Reopens.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The First National Bank of Brooklyn, which closed on Oct. 25 last, reopened for business today. Since its closing the bank has been in the hands of John W. Schofield as receiver. A deficiency of $165,000 which existed when the bank suspended has been made good by the stockholders.

SEEKS TO PLACE POSTOFFICE ON BUSINESS BASIS

Commission Advises That Postmaster-General Be Relieved of All Details.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Complete revision of the postoffice system in the United States, with the complete elimination of politics and the introduction of modern business methods in the management of all offices, and the complete separation from all but questions of policy of the Postmaster-General, is recommended by the report submitted to Congress today by the Joint Postal Commission.

Alleging that the Postoffice Department has been conducted from its inception on business principles which would bankrupt the largest private corporation in four years, the report says the department has itself only been saved from bankruptcy because it has the Government treasury to fall back on when deficits occurred.

The new plan outlined suggests the removal of all direct business management from the Postmaster-General, and recommends the appointment by the President of an officer and assistants chosen solely with regard to business fitness instead of politics. These active managers, the committee holds, should hold office long terms.

"Before the Postmaster-General and his assistants can become reasonably familiar with the operations of the service they are replaced by others," the report says, "who, in turn, are called upon to resign before they can, in the nature of things, become qualified by knowledge and experience to perform their allotted tasks. Under such a system only commercial demoralization can result."

BURGLARS ROB STORE WITH AX

Booty Amounts Almost to Wagon Load, Is Worth $800.

Burglars used an ax in entering the store of Abraham Holtz at 1909 Market street, early Monday, and, Holtz declares, must have filled a wagon with the goods they stole. The men entered by an upper rear window from the roof of an annex. Finding the doors leading to the first floor locked, they chopped a hole through the floor. From the store they took overcoats, suits of clothes, revolvers and suit cases. Holtz estimates his loss at $800.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press. In addition it receives the service of the United Press and maintains a leased wire to its New York Bureau. Its news-gathering organization is unsurpassed in the United States. CUPID'S AGENT PUT ON TRIAL

"Marion Grey," Former Law Student, Hides Her Identity.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Marion Grey, the Elgin matrimonial bureau manager, the organization and conduct of whose club resulted in her arrest for alleged violations of the postal laws, today was placed on trial in Judge Landis' court. Miss Grey admits the name she uses is a business pseudonym. She refuses to disclose her identity. The government detectives have learned she once attended the University of Wisconsin to study law. She was unable to pay her expenses and established the bureau in Elgin. The impanelling of a jury consumed the morning session.

DISCOVERER OF GREATEST GOLD FIELD IN WORLD IS NOW DEPENDENT ON CHARITY

Fund Is Started for Relief of Man Who Sold Mine Worth $1,000,000 for $500.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Feb. 10.—A fund for the relief of Robert Womack, discoverer of the world's greatest gold camp, Cripple Creek, has been started here. Womack is a helpless paralytic and he and his father, 94 years old, are dependent on his sister, Miss Eliza G. Womack. The sister until recently conducted a rooming house, but she has been compelled to abandon it to nurse her father and brother.

Womack herded cattle on the site of Cripple Creek for years before it became a gold camp. He frequently found "float" ore, and finally he brought some samples here and interested capitalists and prospectors. The camp has yielded, since 1891, $238,000,000 in gold.

Womack located the Gold King mine. It was at first unprofitable, and he sold it for $500. It has since yielded the purchasers $1,000,000.

MORSE'S ARREST EXPECTED ON HIS ARRIVAL HOME

Federal Grand Jury Likely to Make an Investigation of the Banker's Affairs.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The tangled affairs of Charles W. Morse are expected to take a new turn this week as a result of a seven-hour conference at the Hotel Manhattan between Secretary Cortelyou and Comptroller Ridgeley. Mr. Cortelyou, after his visit to United State District Attorney Stimson, Saturday, decided to change his plan of returning to Washington that night.

The District Attorney is reported to be planning a surprise for Morse, in the shape of arrest when he lands this week from the steamship Etruria. Mr. Stimson refused to say what his intention is. Mr. Morse's lawyer, Albert B. Boardman, is confident that there will be no grand jury proceedings until after Morse has returned to the city.

TRY THIS TO CHECK A COLD.

To check and cure a cold people should never resort to drastic purges, bromides, strychnine and the like. It is dangerous for the heart.

This method is better, and has been tried and not found wanting. Go to your druggist and ask for a ten-cent package of Blackburn's Castor-Oil-Pills—(a mild, harmless and pleasurable physic, tonic and purifier—a non-secret, ethical preparation). In addition to these pills get ten cents' worth of quinine sulphate in two-grain capsules. One capsule two hours before retiring; one capsule one hour before retiring. One pill above mentioned at retiring. One the following morning. Another quinine capsule next day will complete the cure.

To check a cold at once take one capsule with pint of hot water drank as hot as possible; in an hour take one pill of above kind. (Be sure to ask for Blackburn's Castor-Oil-Pills. Other kind might be dangerous or excite nausea.)

AUTOS TO VISIT POST-DISPATCH ON GLOBE RACE

Three Frenchmen Will Be Guests of Newspaper During Stay in St. Louis.

WILL START TUESDAY

Thousands Will Cheer Foreigners as They Leave N. Y. World Building.

On the invitation of the Post-Dispatch, Eugene Le Louvier, Maurice Drieghe and Max Hohmann, the three venturesome Frenchmen, will visit St. Louis on their way from New York to Paris in an automobile. On reaching St. Louis, the three men will pass through Broadway to the office of the Post-Dispatch and will be the guests of the newspaper during their stay in this city.

After carefully considering roads and weather conditions likely to prevail, the foreigners have decided to go by a comparatively southern route, instead of by way of the Great Lakes. In doing so they hope to escape being held up in a possible blizzard in the lake region.

Start From World Building.

Dispatches from New York say many letters from business men were sent to the Brevoort House, where the Frenchmen are staying, asking them to postpone their start until the noon hour Tuesday, so that thousands more might be able to see them off. This they decided to do.

The gray Werner car will draw up in front of the New York World Building, Park Row, at 12 o'clock. At 12:30 it will start on its 20,000 mile journey, going down past the Postoffice, into Broadway and then to the Staten Island ferry. The Frenchmen will pass through parts of 15 states. As soon as they decided on their itinerary word was flashed to the various cities, where preparations were immediately begun to receive the daring foreigners.

The western cities the tourists will pass through are Kansas City, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Pocatello, Idaho; Portland, Ore.; Tacoma, Wash., and Seattle, where they will embark for Skagway.

Has Traveled in West.

The other foreigners, who are taking the northern route in the race promoted by Le Matin of Paris, expressed their doubts about the Le Louvier party's being able to get from Cheyenne through to Seattle on account of the snow, but M. H. Hohmann is confident he can do it. He made the passage four times while a cowboy.

Le Matin autoists are deeply interested in every move of the independent racers, who are to make the journey in the interest of Le Journal. They all appreciate how well M. Louvier, M. Drieghe and M. Hohmann know the northwest and the Arctic regions, and their route was eagerly sought. M. Louvier will give a talk at the Brevoort House at 8 o'clock Monday night outlining the trip.

Six teams are to leave New York for Paris in the contest under the direction of Le Matin. Four nations will be represented among the contestants. Three French crews, one German, one Italian and one American will make the start Wednesday when word to go is given by Mayor George B. McClellan. The start will be made from Times Square, in the heart of New York, and the first stage of the journey leads up Broadway and Riverside Drive to the city limits.

The order of start and the personnel of the various teams follow:

No. 1, French—G. Bourcier St. Chaffray, Capt. Hans Hendrik Hansen and M. Autran.

No. 2, French—M. Godard, M. Hue and M. Livier.

No. 3, French—M. Pons, M. Deschamps and M. Berthe.

No. 4, Italian—Antonio Scarfuglio, Emilio Sirtori and Henri Basga.

No. 5, German—Lieut. Kooppen, Engineer Hans Krape and Engineer Ernest Maas.

No. 6, American—Montague Roberts and Howard Brinker.

To Follow Pekin Route.

Three of the drivers contested in the famous Pekin-to-Paris race, the success of which caused the present unusual contest to be projected. A part of the journey is to be made over the same route traversed by the winning car in the Pekin-to-Paris race, from Irkutsk on the line of the Transsiberian Railroad to Paris.

POPE AGAINST PROHIBITION, DECLARES ST. LOUIS PRIEST

His Holiness Favors Temperance, Says Father Goller, but Believes Men Should be Allowed to Decide for Themselves.

That Pope Pius X is not in sympathy with the prohibition idea was publicly stated in a lecture Sunday evening on "The Holy Father," by Mgr. Franz Goller, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Church to the Catholic Union of Missouri at Goller's Hall, Eighth street and Allen avenue. The sentiment was loudly applauded.

Mgr. Goller had been following the career of the Pope from his young priesthood to his present eminence, stating that he knew the needs of the people as probably none other.

Believes in Temperance.

Picking up a glass of water to take a drink, Mgr. Goller said:

"I am reminded of our old friend, Anton Roeslein, who was formerly so well known in St. Louis, but now living abroad, by this glass of water. Mr. Roeslein's motto, when water was referred to, was 'Inside never, outside with caution.'

"This brings to me the thought that His Holiness, while he believes in everything temperate, has no sympathy whatever with the prohibition movement.

"He drinks a glass of wine himself and believes that men should use their own judgment in what they should eat and what they should drink, and not have other men decide such matters for them. That is not the spirit of freedom, but of autocratic government. In this country of boasted freedom especially, prohibition has no place. The Pope is the apostle of all things in moderation, but not of prohibition."

Mgr. Goller's remarks about the Pope's views on the prohibition question were received with acclamation, and, at the instance of the speaker, three cheers were given for His Holiness.

Labor Union Opposed.

Both "as a matter of principle and as a question of public policies," the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis is opposed to all prohibition measures, acording to a resolution it unanimously adopted Sunday afternoon.

This action was taken in response to a communication from officers of the Beerbottle Blowers' branch of the Glassblowers' Union, which protested against Senator Tillman's national prohibition bill on the ground that its passage would rob the beerbottle blowers of their work, force them into general glassblowing, and thus reduce glassblowers' wages.

POLICE SEEKING THIEF WITH SPADE WHOSE SPECIALTIES ARE OVERCOATS AND CIGARS

He Visits Homes of G. J. Tansey and J. A. Hafner and Leaves Tool Behind at the Latter.

George J. Tansey's home at 226 North Newstead avenue was chosen by the "man with the spade" for his second demonstration of pussy-foot burglary.

The thief took a solid silver cigar box and 50 cigars, a satin-lined overcoat, and jewelry valued at $150. The cigars belonged to Mr. Tansey, the overcoat to his father-in-law, James A. Fisher, and the jewelry and so taken with it, to Margaret Barmingham, a servant.

A plumber's small spade is at the Newstead Avenue Station, held as evidence" in the robbery of J. A. Hafner's home, 4534 McPherson avenue. At both places the spade was used in prying a rear window open. No one heard the burglar at either place. The plunder at the Hafner house was a mahogany cigar box, with 100 cigars, and an overcoat.

The rear window at the Tansey house was found open at 7:30 a. m. Sunday. Policemen at once remembered the Hafner robbery, and men carrying spades after dark in the neighborhood will have a hard time keeping out of the station.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED TO KAUFMANN, FORMER BROKER

Assignee Alleges He Failed to Account for Disposing of Car of Onions.

Harry A. Kaufmann of 4059 Shenandoah avenue, formerly in the commission brokerage business under the firm name of Kaufmann-Lewis Brokerage Co., was arrested by detectives Monday morning after he had stepped from the Court of Criminal Correction, where he had been arraigned on a misdemeanor charge. An information charging Kaufmann with embezzlement has been issued.

The Kaufmann-Lewis Co. assigned three days after Christmas in favor of the F. W. Brockmann Commission Co. and other creditors. Later a carload of onions was shipped by J. S. Manchester of Lakeview, Ga., to the Kaufmann-Lewis Co., and, according to the charge of Brockmann, was disposed of by Kaufmann without an accounting being made to the Brockmann company. The charge against Kaufmann is that he embezzled $228, representing part of the proceeds from the sale of the onions. Kaufmann says he turned over part of the proceeds to Albert S. Block, another creditor.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL BECOMES NEGRO HOSTELRY AFTER FIRE

Blaze in Washroom Causes Excitement While White Tenants Are Packing Belongings.

The Commercial Hotel, Morgan street and Ewing avenue, a World's Fair apartment house, which has been a losing investment for its owners since the Fair, was converted Monday into a negro hotel. The 40 white guests, notified several days ago, moved out, and R. W. O'Bannon, the manager, turned the place over to Mrs. Amy Jones, a negress.

A fire in one of the washrooms of the hotel Sunday night, while many of the roomers were packing their belongings, created excitement in the house and throughout the neighborhood. Many expressed the opinion that the fire was due to the resentment of some white person over the opening of a negro hotel in the neighborhood. C. H. Evans, owner of the property, said Monday that he did not share this view. He said the change was made because he could not make the property pay with white tenants.

"NEVER SAID IT," SAYS MORGAN IN REPLY TO EDITOR ULAR'S STORY

Financier Calls Published Interview Joke—Says Views Expressed Are Not His.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—J. Pierpont Morgan was seen at the Arlington Hotel by the correspondent of the World and Post-Dispatch and asked if he had anything to add to the views expressed by him in an interview with Alexandre Ular, editor of Le Petit Journal of Paris. He said:

"That interview is a fake from start to finish. I never said anything it contained to anybody.

"I don't say that I never met the author of it. I meet many people, and it may be that he and I have been introduced, but certainly I never expressed any such views as are contained in his article. They are so radically different from what I really think that it is not worth while to discuss them. You may just say for me that the interview is out of whole cloth, and I am sorry the World did not take the precaution to submit it to me before publishing it."

The article by Alexandre Ular, editor of Le Petit Journal, purporting to be the report of an interview with J. Pierpont Morgan, which the New York World and Post-Dispatch published Sunday, was submitted by a reputable literary agent. Mr. Ular sailed for Paris on Thursday, Jan. 30. During his stay in this country he had written several satisfactory articles for the World and Post-Dispatch, which had been duly printed. The Post-Dispatch, not doubting the authenticity of the interview, though appreciating its French color, made effort to have it confirmed by Mr. Morgan, but failed to reach him either in New York or through its bureau in Washington.

PTOMAINES KILLED MRS. DILL

Ptomaine poison caused the death of Mrs. Lulu V. Dill, who was found dead in bed at her home, 2759 Belt avenue, Wednesday afternoon, according to the report to Coroner Baron Monday of Dr. F. W. Abeken, postmortem physician.

Dr. Abeken said the ptomaines were responsible for the attack of gastro-enteritis that killed Mrs. Dill. He was unable to determine whether the poisonous germs were contained in the ham, cheese or whisky of which Mrs. Dill had partaken Tuesday night.

In accordance with the report of Dr. Abeken, the Coroner returned a verdict of death from ptomaines.

WISE CLERK

Quits Sandwiches and Coffee for Lunch

The noonday lunch for the Department clerks at Washington is often a most serious question.

"For fifteen years," writes one of these clerks, "I have been working in one of the Government Departments. About two years ago I found myself every afternoon with a very tired feeling in my head, trying to get the day's work off my desk.

"I had heard of Grape-Nuts as a food for brain and nerve centers, so I began to eat it instead of my usual heavy breakfast, then for my lunch instead of sandwiches and coffee.

"In a very short time the tired feeling in the head left me, and ever since then the afternoon's work has been done with as much ease and pleasure as the morning's work.

"Grape-Nuts for two meals a day has worked, in my case, just as advertised, producing that reserve force and supply of energy that does not permit one to tire easily—so essential to the successful prosecution of one's life work." "There's a reason."

BABY WINNING FIGHT WITH SPINAL MENINGITIS, WHICH KILLED MOTHER IN HOSPITAL

The nurses in the isolation ward of the City Hospital are yet fighting to save the life of the baby born there to Mrs. Alice Ellison when she was dying of spinal meningitis.

The report of the nurses Monday noon was that the baby was doing nicely and that its chances to live were good.

The father, Walter Ellison, has not been permitted yet to see his baby, but he goes to the hospital each day to inquire how it is getting along.

If the baby lives he will place her in a children's home, where she will have good care until she grows big enough to be with him.

FUNERAL OF MRS. EISEMAN WILL BE HELD TUESDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Matie Eiseman, wife of Benjamin Eiseman, treasurer of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., will be held from the family residence, 4516 Lindell boulevard, Tuesday. Rabbi Leon Harrison will officiate and the burial will be at Mount Sinai Cemetery.

Mrs. Eiseman died of heart disease at 12:15 a. m. Sunday as she was about to retire after a party had been given in celebration of the announcement of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alice, to Frederick Roth of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Eiseman was 59 years old and had been married 40 years. For 25 years she had lived in St. Louis. She was Miss Matie Butzel of New York before her marriage. Besides the husband, four children, Miss Alice, Fred and Jesse Eiseman and Mrs. Solomon L. Schwartz, survive.

TRY THIS FOR COLDS.

Mix half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whiskey; shake well each time and use in doses of a teaspoon to a tablespoonful every four hours.

This is the formula prescribed by the renowned throat and lung specialist who established the camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine. He declares that it will heal the lungs and cure any cough that is curable and will break up an acute cold in twenty-four hours. The ingredients can be secured from any druggist at a small cost and is easily mixed at home.

The real "Concentrated" oil of pine is put up for medical use in half-ounce vials inclosed in tin screw top cases which protect it from heat and light.

These meals are always ready; and what do you know that's so good?

You will never bake beans at home again when you once learn the difference between yours and Van Camp's.

Note how nutty our beans are—how mealy. None are browned, none are broken; all are baked alike.

And note what a delicious blend we get. It comes from baking the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together.

It isn't your fault, but you cannot begin to bake beans as we bake them

You lack the facilities. Beans must be baked in a very fierce heat, else they are not digestible.

We bake ours 90 minutes at 245 degrees.

Then we bake in live steam. That's why our beans don't brown, don't burst. That is why they are all baked alike, and baked well. That's why they are mealy, yet nutty.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

Then you can't get the beans that we get, for ours are selected by hand from the choicest beans grown.

We pay for them seven times what some beans would cost.

Then our tomatoes are ripened on the vines—not in shipment. They are picked when the juice fairly sparkles. That gives to our sauce the zest which you don't get in other sauce.

The millions of people who know Van Camp's never want home-baked beans

We have spent 47 years in learning how to best prepare this dish. Is it any wonder we know?

Don't judge Van Camp's by some other brands that are cheapened at every point. It pays to get the best in beans, because your people will eat them more frequently; eat them in place of meat.

And beans are Nature's choicest food—84 per cent nutriment.

ELEVEN WORKERS BRAVE DEATH AT RIVER'S BOTTOM

Lives of Men Depend on Pumps Which Force Air Into Bridge Casson.

BEDROCK IS POLISHED

"Sand Hogs" Like the Labor, for Hours Are Short and the Pay Is Good.

In a caisson resting on bed rock at the bottom of the Mississippi River 11 men work day and night with the danger of death always before them. Above their heads is a solid mass of 60 feet of concrete and masonry weighing thousands of tons that may crush in upon them at any time. All around them are the treacherous quicksands of the river bottom, pressing inward against the sides of their caisson with incredible force. Always the water and mud, with tremendous pressure behind it, is seeking an entrance.

The quicksands are kept out by compressed air, which is pumped into the caisson from above at a pressure of 26 pounds to the square inch.

The lives of the 11 men depend upon the air pumps above and the watchfulness of the men at the air valves. Let that pressure relax for one moment and the ooze of the river's bottom would burst in and the lives of 11 men would be smothered out in an instant.

These men are scouring the limestone surface of the bedrock, making ready for the concrete that will be the base upon which will rest the central pier of the great McKinley bridge. Over this bridge the electric cars of the Illinois Traction System will enter St. Louis. The St. Louis approach of the bridge will be at Salisbury street.

Sightseers in Caisson.

A party of the bridge contractors, a few business men and newspaper men went down into the caisson Sunday morning. The surface of the water all around the pier boils and seethes. And these bubbles gurgle from beneath the bottoms of the big barges anchored all around. Upon one barge are the boilers, engines, air pumps and electric dynamos. A 4-inch pipe sticks from the top of the pier and every once in awhile a stream of water spurts out of it and a volley of sand and pebbles shoots out of it.

That is how the sand comes from the caisson, 60 feet below. The men put a few shovels full of sand at the bottom of the pipe, a valve in it is opened and the tremendous pressure of air rushing upward sucks out the sand or water.

Down through the center of the pier is a round steel pipe three feet in diameter. Through this the workmen—"sand hogs," they call themselves—go and come. A steel trapdoor at the top of the pipe is opened and you go down into the first air lock. There is another trapdoor at your feet, bottling in the compressed air beneath. In this tubular air lock you stand on a narrow rung on a level with your chin. The ladder and cling with both hands to trapdoor closes with a bang above your head, and then, through an inch pipe somewhere beneath, the compressed air rushes in upon you.

The trap below falls open and a voice shouts:

"All right, come down."

Air Is Oppressive.

You climb down into a great chamber 70 feet long and 28 feet wide, with a ceiling of great beam work 7 feet high. This is lighted by electric bulbs. The air is hot and oppressive and thick with steam. Through the haze you see the men at work all around the edges of the caisson. These 11 men are thinly clad. One is lying on his side chipping with a cold chisel at the rock where the steel edge of the caisson rests upon it. There is a hump in the rock there and he is cutting it down so the edge of the caisson will rest upon a level.

"Are you never afraid down here?" you ask the man.

"Naw," he answers with a laugh. "You won't die till your times comes."

Short Hours, Good Pay.

That is the philosophy under which they work. This man has been at it seven years. In that time he has had the "bends" several times, and the compressed air paralyzed him once, but he says: "Once a sand hog, you are always one. It's short hours and good pay."

The bedrock here is worn into ridges. It is a white limestone, smoothly polished. On it is a bed of cobble stones worn round and smooth. Many of them are granite. Scientists say they were between the rock and ice long ago when a mighty glacier moved down the valley of the Mississippi and this ground and polished them.

Eleven men work in shifts of three hours. When the edges of the caisson are level the chamber will be filled with concrete and that will finish the pier.

"THE ROAD TO YESTERDAY" TELLS WHIMSICAL STORY

To Enjoy It Thoroughly Follow That Road and Become a Child Again---Minnie Dupree's Clever Work in Star Role.

WHATEVER you wish on Midsummer eve, which is June 23, comes true. If you don't like your wish and want to unwish it, you have to wait until Midsummer eve comes again. There's the whole foundation of "The Road to Yesterday," in which little Minnie Dupree made her first St. Louis appearance as a star at the Olympic last night.

Precisely as you had to believe in fairies to enjoy "Peter Pan," you have to believe in this old-folk lore legend to enjoy "The Road to Yesterday." In other words, you've got to take that road yourself and follow it back to the days of your childhood, when such beliefs were possible to you. Once this is done, you're all right—because you don't know until the last act that the second and third acts are but a dream, the dream dreamed by Elspeth Tyrrell, an American girl, after a hard day of sightseeing among the medieval "show places" of London, finishing with an indigestible repast at the old Cheshire Cheese Tavern of ancient memory.

'Twas a Self-Hypnotized Audience.

This feat of self-hypnotism, so to speak, seemed easy of accomplishment to last night's audience, which evidently enjoyed the play immensely. It plainly found the keenest amusement in the whimsical adventures of Miss Dupree as Elspeth Tyrrell, whose Midsummer eve dream in the year of 1903 suddenly transported her and all the rest of the cast back to the year of 1603 and kept them there through the two acts mentioned, during which time Elspeth learned that life in the Middle Ages wasn't anything like it's cracked up to be by the novelists whose tales had led her to yearn so wistfully for a taste of the days of real romance. The story, of course, like that of "When Knights Were Bold," in which we saw Francis Wilson earlier this season, found its basic idea in Mark Twain's "A Yankee at the Court of King Arthur," but it's worked out along somewhat different lines and there's quite a lot of genial satire and good humor in it.

Miss Dupree was a refreshing delight in the naivette of her portrayal of the Elspeth role. Oddly enough, she looks like Mrs. Fiske throughout most of the play's action, with the same trick of biting the corner of her lips at certain moments and also with a touch of the Fiskian tonal inflections—it was vastly tickling to note the resemblance in a character so utterly unlike anything ever played by the actress who used to attend the Divoll public school when she was Minnie Maddern living in St. Louis. But there were many more moments when Miss Dupree was exclusively herself and then she showed us a pathetically disenchanted young woman of the comfortable twentieth century wandering disconsolately among the dreadful cruelties, hardships and coarseness of the seventeenth. The medieval folk she encountered were anything but nice—save and except a certain yeoman-hero—but, fortunately, they were those whom she knew before she took the road to yesterday in her dream, and they became nice again when the dream was dreamed out, everything ending happily and quite up-to-date just before the last curtain fell.

Best Work Done in Second Act.

The second act was the particular gem of the evening—it is here that we are first introduced to the disillusioning realities of the life of 300 years ago, seeing Elspeth Tyrrell having a perfectly awful time, escaping, in the guise of a most delicious sixteenth century boy, from the persecutions of a noble lord of high degree who wanted to wed her by force in order to get control of her fortune. And what a fine, likable fellow was this same Lord Strangevon when he was merely Capt. Kenelm Paulton of the present time—honestly, the world and its people must surely be growing better and better, just as the optimists so strenuously assert!

There isn't a person in the cast, hardly, but would refuse to associate, in his twentieth century self, with that same self of the sixteenth century, so hugely improved are we by the kindly touch of Time's fingers.

For this is the lesson taught by "The Road to Yesterday," and there seemed not to be one single solitary person in last night's audience but rejoiced heartily with Elspeth Tyrrell when the ending of her dream restored her to our own good times. All of us had come to love Elspeth, played with such humorous ingenuousness by Minnie Dupree as to create almost a new stage figure, and, besides, there were other likable folk in the story and we were glad to see them rescued from their medieval predicaments. Among the lot were Marshall Welch as Kenelm Paulton, Eleanor Moretti as Malena Leveson, Charles Clary as Will Leveson, Robert Demster as Jack Greatorex, Esther Lyon as Eleanor Leveson, Josephine Shephard as Harriet Phelps, F. Owen Baxter as Adrian Tompkyns and Julia Blanc as Norah Gillaw, and they enter into the spirit of the story with a relish of its comedy that makes their work nicely convincing.

But don't forget—you yourself must follow the road to yesterday back to your own childhood if you want to get the real charm of "The Road to Yesterday." Otherwise—well, it's pitiful to think of any otherwise, because the play's not really drama, it's pure fantasy, like "Alice in Wonderland," for instance.

PRAISES FOLK IN PULPIT, SAYS HE WON'T HUSH

Dr. Palmer Replies to Criticisms by Stone's Newspaper Boomers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Ray Palmer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jefferson City, which is attended by Gov. Folk, has issued a reply to criticisms by Senator Stone's party papers on the sermon Dr. Palmer preached a week ago, when he lauded Gov. Folk.

Papers in Kansas City and Jefferson City favoring the "old gang" have published stories intimating that Dr. Palmer would be asked to resign his pulpit because of the sermon.

Dr. Palmer's Reply.

In his reply Dr. Palmer declares:

"I shall be king of my pulpit so long as I am a pastor in this city. The statement that my church is divided against itself is untrue. Ninety per cent of my members will stand with me, both for the liberty of the pulpit and for my advocacy of Gov. Folk. Since Gov. Folk is the embodiment of those principles that Jesus Christ came to establish throughout the world, it is not only the privilege, but the duty, of every minister and every other Christian as well to give him most loyal support.

Will Support Folk.

"Let no man dictate to me how I shall vote and above all things let no man undertake to lay his hand over my mouth as a preacher of righteousness.

"No man can make me believe that my church will turn its back upon one of its most honored and beloved brethren, Joseph W. Folk, and take their stand against him and step down to fight him, with the brewers and distillers, the gamblers and Sabbath breakers of this country."

CONSENT NOT REQUIRED FOR PUBLICATION OF PORTRAITS

Judge Rules Newspapers May Use Individuals' Pictures in News Columns.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Supreme Court Justice Betts, in sustaining a demurrer in the case of Joseph Moser against the Press Publishing Co., publishers of the New York World, has decided that a newspaper has the right to publish in its news columns a portrait or picture of a person without first obtaining the consent of that person.

Mr. Moser relied upon a statute of 1903, passed to prevent the unauthorized use of a name or picture in advertisements for purposes of trade. Justice Betts holds that the statute does not apply to news publications in papers, and had the Legislature so intended it would have made that purpose clear.

Cheery Children

A cheerful child will grow into a useful man or woman.

Let them have a good start in the morning.

Give them all they want of Elijah's Manna, the sweet, crisp, flake food made from White Corn.

Their eyes get bright because it "tastes so good;" they become cheerful because Elijah's Manna does not make them "late to school"—it's all ready cooked.

The food of the Old Prophet is good for everybody, and especially for making children cheerful.

Sold by Grocers in large Family pkg. 15c.

Elijah's Manna

is easily the most delicious flake food made. Trial proves!

Be sure the food comes to the table crisp. When package is allowed to remain open the moisture of the air makes it tough. In such case insist that it be dried in an oven as per directions on pkg., then it is delicious.

SUPREME COURT TO STAND FIRM AGAINST "MOB"

Justices Will Farm Bulwark Between Constitution and "Popular Passion."

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The justices of the United States Supreme Court have taken counsel regarding the present-day political tendencies in both parties, so far as these seem to menace the Constitution. They have determined that upon them rests the burden of standing between the Constitution and "popular passion."

They intend at every point to meet these subversive tendencies and defeat them. There is reason to believe that the late labor decisions of the courts are merely the beginning of a series which will confront the innovators at every step.

The decisions in question declared unconstitutional the Employers' Liability Act and the Erdman Compulsory Arbitration Act affecting disputes between labor and capital. The justices are not confident that Congress can be relied upon to stand permanently between the Constitution and what one of the justices calls the "mob," and they are determined to fulfill their ancient function of a bulwark.

Whoever is President now and for the succeeding four years, the justices are confident that the composition of the court cannot be changed in that time so as to interfere with their intention.

President Roosevelt has proposed that certain laws recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court be so changed as to meet the objection of unconstitutionality. Senator La Follette and others have introduced measures to cure defects of unconstitutionality. It is extremely improbable that any measure which the Supreme Court regards as of dangerous tendency can pass muster before that bench, no matter how it is amended.

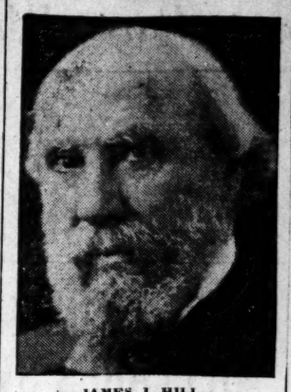
VETERAN RAILROADER WHO DECRIES PANIC



JAMES J. HILL.

"STOP GHOST DANCING," COUNSELS JAMES J. HILL, REFERRING TO PRESIDENT

Empire Builder Declares Country Needs a Rest From Industrial Upheaval.

WE must all stop "ghost dancing." James J. Hill says so.

Up north, in the country along Mr. Hill's railroads, everybody knows what "ghost dancing" is. When it starts on the Indian reservations, everything else stops, and the white people near the reservations, whose houses are not very near together, go into town to visit their relatives.

But in New York, where Mr. Hill made the remark, it sounded a little puzzling. Those to whom he made the remark thought it must have some reference to a personage at Washington who has been writing about "predatory wealth" and the "death knell of the republic."

Mr. Hill said, according to dispatches:

"What this country needs is a rest. Let a stop be put to this ghost-dancing business, and everything will work out all right.

"Railroad earnings this summer will be below those of last summer, but the farmers up in the Northwest will plant as much wheat as ever, and we are feeling the effects less than in some other places."

ELEVEN WORKERS BRAVE DEATH AT RIVER'S BOTTOM

Lives of Men Depend on Pumps Which Force Air Into Bridge Casson.

BEDROCK IS POLISHED

"Sand Hogs" Like the Labor, for Hours Are Short and the Pay Is Good.

In a caisson resting on bed rock at the bottom of the Mississippi River 11 men work day and night with the danger of death always before them. Above their heads is a solid mass of 60 feet of concrete and masonry weighing thousands of tons that may crush in upon them at any time. All around them are the treacherous quicksands of the river bottom, pressing inward against the sides of their caisson with incredible force. Always the water and mud, with tremendous pressure behind it, is seeking an entrance.

The quicksands are kept out by compressed air, which is pumped into the caisson from above at a pressure of 26 pounds to the square inch.

The lives of the 11 men depend upon the air pumps above and the watchfulness of the men at the air valves. Let that pressure relax for one moment and the ooze of the river's bottom would burst in and the lives of 11 men would be smothered out in an instant.

These men are scouring the limestone surface of the bedrock, making ready for the concrete that will be the base upon which will rest the central pier of the great McKinley bridge. Over this bridge the electric cars of the Illinois Traction System will enter St. Louis. The St. Louis approach of the bridge will be at Salisbury street.

Sightseers in Caisson.

A party of the bridge contractors, a few business men and newspaper men went down into the caisson Sunday morning. The surface of the water all around the pier boils and seethes. And these bubbles gurgle from beneath the bottoms of the big barges anchored all around. Upon one barge are the boilers, engines, air pumps and electric dynamos. A 4-inch pipe sticks from the top of the pier and every once in awhile a stream of water spurts out of it and a volley of sand and pebbles shoots out of it.

That is how the sand comes from the caisson, 60 feet below. The men put a few shovels full of sand at the bottom of the pipe, a valve in it is opened and the tremendous pressure of air rushing upward sucks out the sand or water.

Down through the center of the pier is a round steel pipe three feet in diameter. Through this the workmen—"sand hogs," they call themselves—go and come. A steel trapdoor at the top of the pipe is opened and you go down into the first air lock. There is another trapdoor at your feet, bolting in the compressed air beneath. In this tubular air lock you stand on a narrow rung on a level with your chin. The ladder and cling with both hands to trapdoor closes with a bang above your head, and then, through an inch pipe somewhere beneath, the compressed air rushes in upon you.

The trap below falls open and a voice shouts:

"All right, come down."

Air Is Oppressive.

You climb down into a great chamber 70 feet long and 28 feet wide, with a ceiling of great beam work 7 feet high. This is lighted by electric bulbs. The air is hot and oppressive and thick with steam. Through the haze you see the men at work all around the edges of the caisson. These 11 men are thinly clad. One is lying on his side chipping with a cold chisel at the rock where the steel edge of the caisson rests upon it. There is a hump in the rock there and he is cutting it down so the edge of the caisson will rest upon a level.

"Are you never afraid down here?" you ask the man.

"Naw," he answers with a laugh. "You won't die till your times comes."

Short Hours, Good Pay.

That is the philosophy under which they work. This man has been at it seven years. In that time he has had the "bends" several times, and the compressed air paralyzed him once, but he says: "Once a sand hog, you are always one. It's short hours and good pay."

The bedrock here is worn into ridges. It is a white limestone, smoothly polished. On it is a bed of cobble stones worn round and smooth. Many of them are granite. Scientists say they were between the rock and ice long ago when a mighty glacier moved down the valley of the Mississippi and this ground and polished them.

Eleven men work in shifts of three hours. When the edges of the caisson are level the chamber will be filled with concrete and that will finish the pier.

"THE ROAD TO YESTERDAY" TELLS WHIMSICAL STORY

To Enjoy It Thoroughly Follow That Road and Become a Child Again---Minnie Dupree's Clever Work in Star Role.

WHATEVER you wish on Midsummer eve, which is June 23, comes true. If you don't like your wish and want to unwish it, you have to wait until Midsummer eve comes again. There's the whole foundation of "The Road to Yesterday," in which little Minnie Dupree made her first St. Louis appearance as a star at the Olympic last night.

Precisely as you had to believe in fairies to enjoy "Peter Pan," you have to believe in this old-folk lore legend to enjoy "The Road to Yesterday." In other words, you've got to take that road yourself and follow it back to the days of your childhood, when such beliefs were possible to you. Once this is done, you're all right—because you don't know until the last act that the second and third acts are but a dream, the dream dreamed by Elspeth Tyrrell, an American girl, after a hard day of sightseeing among the medieval "show places" of London, finishing with an indigestible repast at the old Cheshire Cheese Tavern of ancient memory.

'Twas a Self-Hypnotized Audience.

This feat of self-hypnotism, so to speak, seemed easy of accomplishment to last night's audience, which evidently enjoyed the play immensely. It plainly found the keenest amusement in the whimsical adventures of Miss Dupree as Elspeth Tyrrell, whose Midsummer eve dream in the year of 1903 suddenly transported her and all the rest of the cast back to the year of 1603 and kept them there through the two acts mentioned, during which time Elspeth learned that life in the Middle Ages wasn't anything like it's cracked up to be by the novelists whose tales had led her to yearn so wistfully for a taste of the days of real romance. The story, of course, like that of "When Knights Were Bold," in which we saw Francis Wilson earlier this season, found its basic idea in Mark Twain's "A Yankee at the Court of King Arthur," but it's worked out along somewhat different lines and there's quite a lot of genial satire and good humor in it.

Miss Dupree was a refreshing delight in the naivette of her portrayal of the Elspeth role. Oddly enough, she looks like Mrs. Fiske throughout most of the play's action, with the same trick of biting the corner of her lips at certain moments and also with a touch of the Fiskian tonal inflections—it was vastly tickling to note the resemblance in a character so utterly unlike anything ever played by the actress who used to attend the Divoll public school when she was Minnie Maddern living in St. Louis. But there were many more moments when Miss Dupree was exclusively herself and then she showed us a pathetically disenchanted young woman of the comfortable twentieth century wandering disconsolately among the dreadful cruelties, hardships and coarseness of the seventeenth. The medieval folk she encountered were anything but nice—save and except a certain yeoman-hero—but, fortunately, they were those whom she knew before she took the road to yesterday in her dream, and they became nice again when the dream was dreamed out, everything ending happily and quite up-to-date just before the last curtain fell.

Best Work Done in Second Act.

The second act was the particular gem of the evening—it is here that we are first introduced to the disillusioning realities of the life of 300 years ago, seeing Elspeth Tyrrell having a perfectly awful time, escaping, in the guise of a most delicious sixteenth century boy, from the persecutions of a noble lord of high degree who wanted to wed her by force in order to get control of her fortune. And what a fine, likable fellow was this same Lord Strangevon when he was merely Capt. Kenelm Paulton of the present time—honestly, the world and its people must surely be growing better and better, just as the optimists so strenuously assert! There isn't a person in the cast, hardly, but would refuse to associate, in his twentieth century self, with that same self of the sixteenth century, so hugely improved are we by the kindly touch of Time's fingers.

For this is the lesson taught by "The Road to Yesterday," and there seemed not to be one single solitary person in last night's audience but rejoiced heartily with Elspeth Tyrrell when the ending of her dream restored her to our own good times. All of us had come to love Elspeth, played with such humorous ingenuousness by Minnie Dupree as to create almost a new stage figure, and, besides, there were other likable folk in the story and we were glad to see them rescued from their medieval predicaments. Among the lot were Marshall Welch as Kenelm Paulton, Eleanor Moretti as Malena Leveson, Charles Clary as Will Leveson, Robert Demster as Jack Greatorex, Esther Lyon as Eleanor Leveson, Josephine Shephard as Harriet Phelps, F. Owen Baxter as Adrian Tompkyns and Julia Blanc as Norah Gillaw, and they enter into the spirit of the story with a relish of its comedy that makes their work nicely convincing.

But don't forget—you yourself must follow the road to yesterday back to your own childhood if you want to get the real charm of "The Road to Yesterday." Otherwise—well, it's pitiful to think of any otherwise, because the play's not really drama, it's pure fantasy, like "Alice in Wonderland," for instance.

PRAISES FOLK IN PULPIT, SAYS HE WON'T HUSH

Dr. Palmer Replies to Criticisms by Stone's Newspaper Boomers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Ray Palmer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jefferson City, which is attended by Gov. Folk, has issued a reply to criticisms by Senator Stone's party papers on the sermon Dr. Palmer preached a week ago, when he lauded Gov. Folk.

Papers in Kansas City and Jefferson City favoring the "old gang" have published stories intimating that Dr. Palmer would be asked to resign his pulpit because of the sermon.

Dr. Palmer's Reply.

In his reply Dr. Palmer declares:

"I shall be king of my pulpit so long as I am a pastor in this city. The statement that my church is divided against itself is untrue. Ninety per cent of my members will stand with me, both for the liberty of the pulpit and for my advocacy of Gov. Folk. Since Gov. Folk is the embodiment of those principles that Jesus Christ came to establish throughout the world, it is not only the privilege, but the duty, of every minister and every other Christian as well to give him most loyal support.

Will Support Folk.

"Let no man dictate to me how I shall vote and above all things let no man undertake to lay his hand over my mouth as a preacher of righteousness.

"No man can make me believe that my church will turn its back upon one of its most honored and beloved brethren, Joseph W. Folk, and take their stand against him and step down to fight him, with the brewers and distillers, the gamblers and Sabbath breakers of this country."

CONSENT NOT REQUIRED FOR PUBLICATION OF PORTRAITS

Judge Rules Newspapers May Use Individuals' Pictures in News Columns.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Supreme Court Justice Betts, in sustaining a demurrer in the case of Joseph Moser against the Press Publishing Co., publishers of the New York World, has decided that a newspaper has the right to publish in its news columns a portrait or picture of a person without first obtaining the consent of that person.

Mr. Moser relied upon a statute of 1903, passed to prevent the unauthorized use of a name or picture in advertisements for purposes of trade. Justice Betts holds that the statute does not apply to news publications in papers, and had the Legislature so intended it would have made that purpose clear.

SUPREME COURT TO STAND FIRM AGAINST "MOB"

Justices Will Farm Bulwark Between Constitution and "Popular Passion."

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The justices of the United States Supreme Court have taken counsel regarding the present-day political tendencies in both parties, so far as these seem to menace the Constitution. They have determined that upon them rests the burden of standing between the Constitution and "popular passion."

They intend at every point to meet these subversive tendencies and defeat them. There is reason to believe that the late labor decisions of the courts are merely the beginning of a series which will confront the innovators at every step.

The decisions in question declared unconstitutional the Employers' Liability Act and the Erdman Compulsory Arbitration Act affecting disputes between labor and capital. The justices are not confident that Congress can be relied upon to stand permanently between the Constitution and what one of the justices calls the "mob," and they are determined to fulfill their ancient function of a bulwark.

Whoever is President now and for the succeeding four years, the justices are confident that the composition of the court cannot be changed in that time so as to interfere with their intention.

President Roosevelt has proposed that certain laws recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court be so changed as to meet the objection of unconstitutionality. Senator La Follette and others have introduced measures to cure defects of unconstitutionality. It is extremely improbable that any measure which the Supreme Court regards as of dangerous tendency can pass muster before that bench, no matter how it is amended.

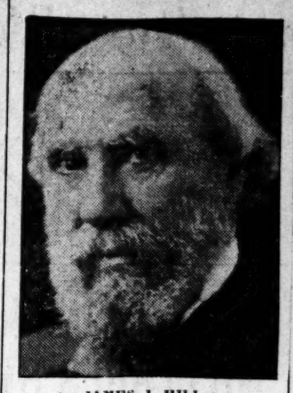
VETERAN RAILROADER WHO DECRIES PANIC



JAMES J. HILL.

"STOP GHOST DANCING," COUNSELS JAMES J. HILL, REFERRING TO PRESIDENT

Empire Builder Declares Country Needs a Rest From Industrial Upheaval.

WE must all stop "ghost dancing." James J. Hill says so.

Up north, in the country along Mr. Hill's railroads, everybody knows what "ghost dancing" is. When it starts on the Indian reservations, everything else stops, and the white people near the reservations, whose houses are not very near together, go into town to visit their relatives.

But in New York, where Mr. Hill made the remark, it sounded a little puzzling. Those to whom he made the remark thought it must have some reference to a personage at Washington who has been writing about "predatory wealth" and the "death knell of the republic."

Mr. Hill said, according to dispatches:

"What this country needs is a rest. Let a stop be put to this ghost-dancing business, and everything will work out all right.

"Railroad earnings this summer will be below those of last summer, but the farmers up in the Northwest will plant as much wheat as ever, and we are feeling the effects less than in some other places."

PRIVATE PARTIES NOW TO DISPOSE OF CITY GARBAGE

Municipal Ownership Plan Is Rejected by Administration and Assembly.

COST $200,000 A YEAR

Plant Will Be Erected at Least Mile in Country and Must Be Sanitary.

St. Louis will signalize its disapproval of municipal ownership so far as it relates to garbage disposition when the Board of Public Improvements Tuesday awards to a private concern the contract providing for the establishment of an odorless reduction plant and two receiving stations, to be located in North and South St. Louis.

The Assembly ordinance authorizing this action provides that the plant shall be located at least one mile and not more than 20 miles from the city limits. According to members of the board, bids are expected from reduction companies in Cleveland, Pittsburg and New Bedford, Mass.

Cost Will Increase.

The estimated cost to the city under the new contract will be at least $200,000 a year. St. Louis spent about $175,000 for garbage reduction in 1907 and an equal amount in 1906.

Since the adoption of the Chesley Island arrangement three years ago, the city has paid for this purpose an aggregate of $575,000.

Formerly the contract had been enjoyed by Ed Butler's sanitary company, whose annual bill to the city was $235,000. This charge was reduced nearly $80,000 a year when the city itself assumed control of the garbage work.

City Feared Butler.

When Chesley Island was obtained as a dumping ground for the city's garbage, there were comparatively few reduction plants in the United States.

Mayor Wells and his associates feared at that time the Butler monopoly might be perpetuated if the contract was renewed with a private concern.

The specifications setting forth the terms under which the new contract will be let have been prepared under the direction of President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements.

Sanitary Plant Required.

Briefly summarized, the requirements imposed on the successful bidder by the board are as follows:

1. The receiving station shall be maintained in a strictly sanitary condition, free from offensive or disagreeable odors. During the regime of the Butler concern the people of South St. Louis complained constantly of the garbage reduction plant.

2. The reduction plant shall have a capacity of not less than 400 tons of garbage matter per day and shall be completed to capacity within 12 months after approval of contract.

3. Hydro carbon solvents shall not be used in the process of reduction of said garbage matter, and no process shall be used that is not continuous and does not confine the garbage from exposure to the air.

Quick Action Required.

4. The contractor shall secure within 30 days after the approval of the contract and bond a piece of property having an area of not less than five acres as a site on which to build the plant, located conveniently to the Mississippi River or one of the railroads having terminals in St. Louis; if on the river not more than 20 miles south of the intersection of Market street and the wharf.

5. Failure on the part of the contractor to carry out severally and singularly the specifications of the contract shall subject him to payment of liquidated damages of $10 for each and every ton of garbage tendered by the city or its agents.

6. Contractor shall provide a bond of $10,000 to insure porper performance of his work.

City to Interpret Contract.

7. To prevent disputes and litigation the contractor agrees that the President of the Board of Public Improvements shall fi. all cases determine the amount of work which is to be paid for under the agreement, and he shall decide all questions which may arise relative to the performance of the contract.

8. If the contractor abandons the work or neglects to comply with the instructions of the board's president, the board reserves the right to cancel the contract.

In passing the garbage bill, the Municipal Assembly acted with the approval of Mayor Wells and members of his administration.

Politicians Interested.

Several well-known politicians also contributed their influence to bring about its passage. No information is available at the office of the Board of Public Improvements as to the identity of the prospective bidders.

150 NIGHT RIDERS TERRORIZE TOWN; WRECK FACTORY

Heavily Armed Mounted Men Dynamite Plant and Burn Barn.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Feb. 10.—A band of about 150 night riders, masked, heavily armed and wearing the insignia of a secret clan, invaded Fredonia, Crittenden County, Saturday midnight, captured James Scarberry, operator of the Cumberland Telephone Co., and cut all telephone connections.

They then forced Dave Potter, a clerk in a drug store, to open his store, in which they corralled several citizens and held them prisoners.

Factory Blown Up.

Leaving a large guard in the town, the others galloped to the village of View, five miles away, and blew up Alfred H. Cardin's tobacco factory, containing 35,000 pounds of tobacco, and set fire to and destroyed Mr. Cardin's barn, containing 10,000 pounds of tobacco belonging to him and his croppers.

The loss aggregates $10,000, with $5000 insurance.

Released Their Captives.

After firing volleys into the air the night riders returned through Fredonia and released their prisoners.

Eighty per cent of Crittenden County farmers have tobacco pooled in the Society of Equity.

Mr. Cardin is not a member. He is a prominent citizen, aged 73, and was formerly a candidate for Governor on the Populist ticket.

The Planters' Association has no organization in this county.

FUNERAL OF PROF. FLETCHER

Son of Former Governor Dies Soon After Mother's Demise.

The funeral of Edwin Louis Fletcher, professor of practical engineering at Christian Brothers' College, who died of tuberculosis Sunday at a hospital on Broadway, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his sister, Mrs. Perry Bartholow, 2837 Russell avenue. Interment will be at Bellefountaine Cemetery.

Prof. Fletcher, who was 56 years old, was the only son of Gov. Thomas Fletcher, the first governor of Missouri after the Civil War. He was not married. Mrs. Thomas Fletcher, the widow of Gov. Fletcher, died only a few weeks ago.

MEN SHOT IN FIGHT RECOVERING

Saloonkeeper Attacked Customers in Quarrel Over 20 Cents.

Physicians at the City Hospital announced Monday that the condition of William Gleason and John Dill, who were shot in a saloon at 2026 Cass avenue Saturday night by its owner, John Langrugh, was not serious.

One bullet struck Dill a glancing blow in the back of his head, and another bullet entered his hip. The two bullets that struck Gleason lodged in his hip and left thigh.

Langrugh is under arrest. He makes the statement that the two men tried to attack him and that he shot to defend himself. He said that the men started for him after quarreling over a 20-cent round of drinks.

BONANZA BILL AS AN ASSET.

What the Nome Gold Dredging and Power Co. capitalized was not merely its free gold bearing tract. It capitalized Bonanza Bill. Without disparagement of other values, its greatest asset was and is the senior Senator from Missouri.

For a good name is better than rubies, specially when it heads the list of directors in a mining prospectus, and reputation is priceless, particularly in a company offering shares to the public.

Like the mother of the Gracchi who pointed to her sons as her jewels, the prospectus proudly declares, "These are the men in whose hands are entrusted the affairs of the Nome Gold Dredging and Power Co." and Bonanza Bill is the first to whom it points triumphantly. In size of reputation he is easily greatest among them. Indeed, it must be confessed that the others do not count for a great deal in his company. Their names do not ring familiarly. As an advertisement they are of no more moment than the office boy in the gray sweater who stays in the company's office.

They are not eminent public servants with ornate titles and official records and careers to capitalize. When, therefore, the prospectus proudly proclaims "These are the men"—— it may be taken to refer to Bonanza Bill in the plural, or in all of his official capacities, a recapitulation of him, as it were.

Of the main asset it advertises: "His record as a member of Congress, Governor of Missouri and United States Senator is too well known to need any commendation here."

To this bare enumeration of the offices he has filled we raise no objections save as to the ethics and good taste of baiting a mining scheme, however profitable, in this manner. And even these objections we leave to moralists. It is only when the prospectus goes further and describes the hero and prime asset of this free gold enterprise as a great statesman that we protest on behalf of the whole people of the republic—for here is a statement that ought to be nailed as perniciously misleading, to say the least.

Bonanza Bill's value as an asset of a free gold concern is one thing. His statesmanship is quite another. As a statesman he does not assay very high in free gold, certainly not over two dollars to the cubic yard of mud; but he runs to about 40 per cent free silver, 30 per cent free brass, 20 per cent free alum, and the rest eggshells—as old Lobbyist Bill Phelps pointed out.

The people of Missouri present their compliments to the Nome Gold Dredging and Power Co. and express the hope that Bonanza Bill's statesmanship, such as it is, will prove of more value as a mining asset than it has ever proved in the service of his State.

ONE GOOD FENDER IN ST. LOUIS.

A fender on a St. Louis trolley car has actually picked up a child and prevented it from being ground to death under the wheels.

To be sure it was not on a regular passenger car, but on a mail car which runs only at infrequent intervals. Its unique capacity may have been due to Uncle Sam's special interest in the car.

Or possibly it was the sample or test fender upon the strength of which the rest of the fenders were bought originally. Sometimes samples have been known to excel the regular stock article. Or maybe this sui generis fender got into the lot by mistake. Cut of a consignment of several thousand fenders it is conceivable that one might prove to be good. There is an exception to nearly every rule.

It is particularly hard to account for this one fender, however. Like the white blackbird, it is not satisfactorily explained by the mere theory of exceptions. If it was just one of the ordinary fenders, then some accident must have happened to it. It was out of order, or it would not have behaved that way.

Something was the matter—possibly a miracle, certainly a mystery. We commend the United Railways to a study of it in the hope that the secret may be discovered and applied to the rest of the equipment. As a matter of fact, one fender that really fends is not enough in a city of this size.

SIXTEENTH WARD RUFFIANISM.

It will be presumed that the Police Department is not subject to a "pull" by the Sixteenth Ward sufficient to insure its connivance at attacks made by a gang of ruffians on two young men who happen to have defended themselves too ably against the rowdyism of a so-called "Democratic" leader on a recent famous occasion.

If the two youths who very properly thrashed "Jimmy" Miles and his fat friend on Christmas to the complete delight of St. Louis are to be set upon by a gang of thugs in Miles' ward, the police may as well take a hand, too. They will be held to the same duty in this ward as in any other.

No evidence of direction or of conspiracy has been brought to light, although the recent assault upon the two young men as they were on their way to court suggested preconcert by the ruffians themselves who committed it. But it might be well for the police to bear in mind the fact that there is such a thing in law as criminal conspiracy—a thing of which thugs in general may be blissfully ignorant.

THE MISSOURI APPETITE FOR TAFT.

Referring to the scandalous activity of Federal officeholders in Missouri in behalf of Mr. Taft, the Washington Post says:

The error into which all these superserviceable officeholders have fallen is in assuming, as the Post-Dispatch intimates, that the civil service regulations forbidding them from taking part in the management of political organizations or in conventions have been abrogated. We believe Mr. Roosevelt would be the first to deny the validity of any such assumption.

Unhappily the belief of our esteemed contemporary is not supported by the known facts as they are disclosed in this as well as in several other states.

Many of the postmasters who have their coats off for Mr. Taft are defending themselves with the assertion that they did not surrender their rights as American citizens when they took office. This is what the spoilsmen used to say when it was first proposed to diminish their political activity.

If Mr. Roosevelt is to be heard from effectively in this matter he must speak with greater emphasis than he did in his recent letter to Mr. Foulke. Missouri officialdom is already enrolled, organized and in action for Taft. A candidacy which had a great deal to commend it has become, so far as this State is concerned, nothing more than a demonstration of men's Appetite for Office.

It must be that the civil service reform bars are all down, or First Assistant Postmaster General Hitchcock, chief spoilsman of the administration, would not have "retired from office" to take personal command of the Taft campaign. Those who remember how easily Mr. Cortelyou "retired from office" four years ago in order to manage the Roosevelt campaign and how quickly he was given a seat in the cabinet when his labors were ended, will readily understand that Mr. Hitchcock, though out of office, is not widely separated from the loaves and fishes.

Here in Missouri the faith of the Washington Post in the President's disapproval of pernicious activity on the part of officeholders is shared neither by the people nor by the postmasters. The former seem to be indifferent. The latter are openly at work, running conventions, setting up delegations and bullying Republicans who attempt to interfere with them.

There is nothing very creditable to anybody in the fact that the fourth American State is likely to speak at Chicago almost exclusively for its Federal officeholders. They are first, last and all the time for Taft and a reappointment.

OLD 16 TO 1 ONCE MORE.

Recent chilling breezes from his native heath of Hard Times have put new energy into Mr. Bryan, and he rarely makes a speech nowadays without asserting that the free silver contention of 1896 has been vindicated.

There is inspiration for promoters of discontent in groups of idle men, in smokeless chimneys and in sidetracked box cars and locomotives. There is temptation in all these also for the veteran agitators of the 16 to 1 era to resume business at the old stand.

Someone in the audience evidently thought of these things the other day, for he asked Mr. Bryan if the free coinage of silver for the benefit of the bonanza miners of the West was still an issue. The reply was:

"No, free silver is not an issue. The silver question was an issue in 1896 because prices were falling and there was no other relief in sight. Since gold production has materially increased prices are rising—or were until the recent panic—and will again, as soon as normal conditions are restored. The silver question, therefore, will not be an issue."

Of course this settles the matter so far as the Democrats are concerned, for Mr. Bryan takes all the nominations, writes all the platforms and makes most of the speeches, but, unhappily for him and his party, it does not bind the Republicans.

The free silver swindle will be an issue as long as Mr. Bryan's candidacy for office continues and he cannot prevent it. Republicans, who know something about the political game themselves, may be depended upon to attend to that.

MR. CORTELYOU'S GREAT TRANSGRESSION

Senator Culberson makes the charge openly that Secretary Cortelyou used public money in unjust proportion to help out Wall street banks and that he violated the law in issuing Panama Canal bonds and Treasury certificates.

The Treasury's relations to Wall street have been a scandal for many years and Mr. Cortelyou appears to have done nothing unusual in that quarter.

Probably there was nothing illegal about the issue of Panama bonds, for while the proceeds were not immediately applied to canal construction, they no doubt will be so used at an early date. So much cannot be said of the Treasury certificates, which had no lawful warrant except one empowering the Secretary to sell them "in such sums as in his judgment may be necessary to meet public expenditures."

Selling certificates for money to be loaned to banks without interest when the banks already hold more than $200,000,000 can hardly be said to be "meeting necessary public expenditures."

As Mr. Cortelyou has been going around for some time with a chip on his shoulder, it would do no harm if Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were to place on record a most emphatic condemnation of this transaction.

It took Uncle Joe Cannon only a few minutes the other day to convince a delegation of Western manufacturers that it is humanly impossible to revise the tariff. Most people came to this conclusion long ago. When an abuse becomes so rank that it cannot be reformed there is only one remedy, and that is destruction. The tariff will meet its match some time.

In view of Mr. Roosevelt's early strenuosity in favor of the open shop it is highly probable that his forthcoming message on labor questions will be "exceedingly mild in tone," for an election is approaching.

The best that Mr. Taft can do in Florida is a contesting delegation. Perhaps the Missouri postmasters committed themselves too early.

While the practical politicians have made a great deal of sport of Mr. Fairbanks, they will not fail to notice that he is the first presidential aspirant to land a solid state delegation.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Answer of Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The answer of organized labor to Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court against the legality of the boycott is the union label. No court dare say that union labor shall buy what it does not want and no court dare deny union labor the right of either label or labels to class the product of union labor.

Feed the Hungry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If some good, enterprising person will follow this plan and start a fund, also ask donations, I am sure that there could be enough realized to feed all the hungry men in our two cities. It is the Christian duty of every man to lend a helping hand to his brother. So I trust some good person will adopt this plan and thereby help the poor men while there is no work to be had at any price. Thanking you, I am,

A Cry for a Good Woman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your valuable paper of Feb. 7, a lady subscribing her name as "A West End Widow" cries for a good man. I am fifty years of age and have been looking for the last twenty years for a good woman. If she is a good woman how can I hope to see her? For I like to get acquainted with a real good woman.

A WEST END BACHELOR.

Appreciation of Learning.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The adage, "We never get too old to learn," came to me with renewed force a few days ago while reading "Letters from the People" in your valuable paper, in one of which it was stated that St. Louis was a "union city," and that Robert E. Lee "fought to perpetuate human slavery." Just think! I am on the shady side of life and never knew that! Nevertheless, there are many of your readers who think that in honoring "Marse Robert" St. Louis honors herself.

A COUNTRY WOMAN.

Pneumonia.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Pneumonia is a germ disease caused by the pneumococcus. The mere contraction of a cold does not infect one; but it is one of the predisposing causes; unless the germ has a good field it will not thrive. The condition of the lungs must be below par before infection takes place. The history of nearly every ordinary case of pneumonia has its origin in the contraction of a severe cold. Thorough ventilation of the sick room is absolutely necessary in the treatment of this affection. So many patients are deprived of the life-giving oxygen (by the over-anxious relative usually), which is one of the greatest factors to sustain life.

A TRAINED NURSE.

The Canuckie-Americans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If we are to have Pero-Americans and German-Americans I shall insist upon the recognition of the Canuckie-Americans. I am intensely proud of the fact that I was born under "the flag that has braved a thousand years of battle and the breeze." Are not the Canucks in business all over the United States? Did they not help save the Union in the Civil War? Some of them may even have helped the Confederacy. The Pero-American and the German-American are both inferior to the Canuckie-American. I mean to get up a petition for the benefit of the Canuckie-Americans, not yet nor soon.

SASKATCHEWAN.

What Can His Business Be?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I see a letter in today's Post-Dispatch from a "West End Widow" asking where to find the good men of today. I have often wondered where to find the good women of today of the old school. My business is such that I cannot attend church or any place where I would have an opportunity to come in contact with the better class of women. I could easily find a wife at public dance halls or beer gardens, but none of that class for me. How am I to meet a high minded, honorable woman? Perhaps a "West End Widow" or someone else can suggest a plan.

A ST. LOUIS BACHELOR.

Tell Us the Reason, Mr. Edwards.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read several articles in your valuable paper regarding the poor in the city and also about How and his army marching to the mayor's office in this city seeking employment. I have noticed for some time past that the jobs that these poor misfortunate creatures formerly had, namely street cleaning, has been given to the Italians and Greeks, some of those that are at present working on the street are no more than 21 years of age. I have been a foreman for years and understand why these classes of people are given the preference over an American working man. If the District Attorney would investigate he would find the reason.

The Other Side.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Under the heading, "Not Wanted at Half Price," Mr. R. Evans makes a bid to cut not only his own wages in half, but those of all other men who apply for work at the present time. Now, if there is no work to be done, how can he get half price any easier than full price for his work? If we were all to stand out to reduce wages we could get them low enough—but where would they stop, and who would be benefited by it? We (carpenters) have kept up our organization, paid hall rents, taken care of our sick, buried our dead, raised our wages from 25c to 65c per hour, decreased our hours from 60 to 44 per week. And now that we are having a little cold spell some nonunion men "butts in" to undo what it has taken us years to accomplish.

The Half-Price Workman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I saw in the Post-Dispatch February 3 where a union man, or I should say self-called union man, is just dying to work for half of his usual wages. Again on the 6th I see another mechanic offers to do the same. I am also a married man and have been out of employment since Oct. 20; am a machinist and belong to the Union. Now I don't know how long either of these gentlemen have been on the unemployed list, but I would like to ask each of them a question. If they couldn't live and save enough money to live a few months while out of work, on their old wages, how are they going to get along on half of it? Provisions haven't decreased in price (so that you can notice it), on the contrary the price has increased.

URBAN AND SUBURBAN HOMINY.

Country people continue to live in blissful ignorance of the disingenuousness of the city, notwithstanding the vicarious missionary work done by the press.

Mrs. Annie Linton Sawyer writes in from Hillsboro, Ill., that the hungry poor should be put on a hominy diet. She points out the superiority of this food over all others in the matter of heat units, low cost pressure, etc.

Excellent, of course—except that this is the city. Mrs. Sawyer is speaking of the hominy they have in the country—not the hominy we get in town. There is a vast difference between urban hominy and suburban. The occurrence of this old favorite on the menu card at any of the city dining rooms means a harsh, hard, half-hulled dish of horse corn without taste, heat units, or the least flavor of the hominy mother made. It wouldn't do for the hungry poor. They would be but the poorer in heat units and the richer in hunger for having eaten it.

Mrs. Sawyer's error was natural enough. She doesn't know about urban hominy. She was speaking of the hominy they have at Hillsboro, Alton, Belleville, St. Charles and Webster Groves.

Which is quite another matter, dear madam.

P. T.—"Poetry" for your valentine box of cigarettes: These cigarettes, though very fine, are better yours than Jen's or mine. Can Death lurk in a valentine?

J.—The abolition of serfdom in Russia in 1861 "created 14,000,000 of freemen, whom a system of state loans enabled to secure small farms on an installment plan of payment."

M. & O.—Penstaff for penholder is rare, and is not in the dictionaries. In the sense of support a penholder might be called a penstaff. One definition of penholder is "penstock."

A. R. J.—Washing in buttermilk nightly softens the hands; or rub in olive oil; or use almond meal in place of soap; or two ounces of oatmeal to quarter ounce of powdered borax and pint of rosewater.

H.—Hogs have veins and arteries. As we stand in awe of Mr. Roosevelt, we dare not say that there is no snake that could not poison a hog. There are swellings on hogs, sometimes, which the country people say are caused by snake bites. There are probably some poisons that would kill a hog.

WORRIED.—How much a girl with a salary of $40 a month should pay her parents for board depends upon how much and what she consumes. There are very hearty girls and some like nothing but costly foods. She should do as well by her parents as their condition seems to require.

SEPTICS.—Sandalwood is among the very best perfumes for personal apparel; it is delicate yet penetrating, and lasts forever; its fragrance permeates, making its way into the drawers of the bureau, chiffonier, etc., until everything kept in them will be sweet. A bit of orris root boiled with handkerchiefs gives them a delightful perfume.

T. L. K.—A majority of the Legislature may propose an amendment to the State constitution. If a majority of the qualified voters vote for the amendment it is deemed ratified by the people and is valid and binding as a part of the constitution. Some amendments are self-enforcing, others require an act of the Legislature. An amendment may declare certain conduct a crime and provide a penalty, but this is rarely done. The constitution of the new State of Oklahoma provides fine and imprisonment for violation of the prohibition provision.

A. A.—A mortgage on the insured chattels voids the policy unless notice of such is waived in the form attached thereto. To protect the mortgagee "Loss, if any, payable to (name here), mortgagee, as his interest may appear," should be inserted in the policy, or "Notice of chattel mortgage waived," but by such indorsement mortgagee would have no interest in the policy, if the mortgage deed stipulated that mortgagor was to insure he could bring proceedings to hold up the sum due from insurance company until the court decides the matter. Although it has been held in this State that a mortgage on the insured property prior to the issuing of the policy would not void it, have the same indorsed upon the policy and avoid possible complications or a probable lawsuit.

DER APOKORES.

A Story of Love and Law in the St. Louis Ghetto, Told for the Post-Dispatch

BY IVAN WHIN.

IKE LEVY spoke of Abraham Schmalzkowski as "Father Abraham," in derision, but so far as Ike knew the long-bearded reader of the law was wholly unaware of scorn.

When Father Abraham spoke of Ike there was bitterness on his tongue.

"Apokores," he called him. Apokores, an epicurean, an eater of swine flesh, a dallier with strange women, apostate, one who lives outside the law and is a stranger to the true and the good.

Miriam of the velvet eyes, and the strong, capable hands, thought kindlier of the man her father condemned so heartily. When in his light way Ike called her feigele (birdie) or dalala (darling) her cheeks would glow like dusky Jacquimenot roses and her dark eyes swim in sudden tears.

She knew he was of the Goy, the sons of her people strayed from the fold, those who no longer ate kosher food or observed the fasts of the faithful, or were heard sonorously uplifting their voices in the synagogue.

"Ven he lif by zee ghetto Ike is LEE-veye, like his fathers before him," Abraham would snarl behind his beard. "Ven he get money by his sweat shop he lif in zee Vest End and you shall call him LEE-veye no more. Not! Vat it is you shall call him?" And the old eyes would glitter from under the heavy brows like river lights from night shadowed shores and his beard would separate in bristling tufts. "Vat it is you shall call him? Hah! it is Le-VEE. Apokores!"

You should hear Abraham grind out that epithet to appreciate its value.

"He is good to his uncle," Miriam would say, mildly, as one who cannot think anyone wholly vile and who makes much of a small redeeming grace.

"Goot? Vy not? Vill he take all and gif noddings back nefer? Vat is goot? He gif him much work and he pay little money, and he gif him some presents for de house. Yes. But do he gif zat he shall follow his footstep, do he say 'I will fast viz you mine uncle, I will read zee law viz you, I will be so goot a man as you is and I will raise up mine sons to follow after you'—push! Noddings he do is goot."

"Yes. He come to see his uncle and he talk long with him but yesterday."

"To get his moneys for more capidal in zat business. Zat is why. And ven he talk, yes ven he talk to his poor old uncle who have not English but only zee Yiddish, how do he talk? Ikey was born to Yiddish; he speak it all his life till he go live to the Vest End. 'En his uncle come by Russia and Ikey meet him he talk English; but his uncle shake his head. Zen Ikey he smile so viz pity and he talk Yiddish like a Krist vat pick up a vord here and a vord zare ven he trade viz a Jew. Zat is his way to talk zee Yiddish he is born in."

And even Miriam would be silent that the flood of wrath might pour itself away unchecked, thus being least destructive. But she never ceased watching the door which opened the tunnel entrance from the street into the court before the back tenement in which she lived. Ike came often into this poor quarter and ever found time to dart back through the tunnel for a word with the beautiful girl.

Then if Abraham were at his work he would raise his eyes, bow gravely and utter the courteous greeting in Yiddish and reply with slow Yiddish solemnity to the gay young man's remarks. He would never use his English, of which he was inordinately proud, when speaking to Ike who, beginning flippantly in English, would ever end uncomfortably in the language of his people.

Often Miriam would see Ike in time to meet him in the noisome court and hold converse with him under the eyes of the workers who sewed so swiftly behind the peering windows.

"Haf you many letters today, is orders goot?" she would ask.

"Fine," was ever his response. For Ike had the Midas touch and business was never dull in a line he undertook. He saw clouds so far in advance that when competitors were preparing increased facilities he was selling those he owned and throwing his energies into a new channel. And business was ever his topic of conversation, ever his chiefest thought, even his dreams were tinctured with it.

These lovers always talked business save when Miriam ventured on mild reproof that aroused Ike's gayest laughter. He laughed easily and then his eyes disappeared in wrinkles of fat and his fine, white teeth flashed from under the heavy black mustache.

"Why I should go to the synagogue? Does that get me anything? If I quit on Saturday who sees to my business. Let them have synagogue on Sunday when everything shuts up. Then I go. Wait, maidele, when I buy a house in the West End and we get married, then we gd to a 'reformed' where the rich ones are. That get us something."

And Miriam hearing only "when we get married" would have roses in her cheeks and such a fluttering heart she could not reprove the sinful audacity of his speech.

Sammie Braun, looking form his attic bedroom shop where six cross-legged, cadaverous men stitched furiously for his profit, would grind his teeth and swear in English, as he watched those meetings. Sammie owned a name of many consonants, a spitting, splutter-ing name horrible to see in print and fearsome to hear. Braun was but an alias, adopted for dealings with an alien world.

He was cantor in the synagogue. His insistent voice, resonantly shrill, helped the faithful to forget pain and poverty of their lives, helped them to forget the woes from which they fled and filled them anew with hope. Weird as the muezzin calling to prayers, dominating as bazar cries of the Far East, it echoed mnemonically in the tailors' minds from Sabbath to Sabbath.

Sammie sat at the feet of Abraham, who read the law and expounded rapturously. Having no kindred in St. Louis Sammie sought solace with Abraham on fast days, sat with him on the Feast of Booths and walked with him to the river for Tashlich.

Small wonder that the father's choice fell upon Braun; small wonder that Father Abraham looked to see Sammie installed as son in his home, as the husband of Miriam, the one child left of his flock.

One day the disciple poured out his woe. "Do you not see that Ike Levy makes love to Miriam? He tells her how rich he is; he tells her they will get married and live in a fine house in the West End. I see from my window; sometimes I hear what they say. He says to her, 'Come, we will go now and be married,' but she says 'No, my father would not let me.' He says, 'Come anyway,' but she says 'No, it would break his heart. Be good and he will say yes.' He laugh and he coax, but she is firm, but is it not des kriegel geht zum brinen bis es wert zebroken? If he coax enough, will she not go?"

"Miriam marry that apokores! It cannot be." The old man rose from his bench and rushed to the door of the kitchen. "Miriam!" he commanded.

She ran from her pans to his side. "What is it, father?"

"Zat man of the devil, Ike Levy, comes here no more," he thundered. "Nefar you speak vis him. Zare! zare is your husband."

And he pointed to Braun.

She gazed upon the disciple in terror. She seemed to see him now for the first time. He had been almost an inmate of her home; he was as familiar as the castiron stove over which she toiled, as the bench upon which her father sat, and as unspiritual. He had been near her daily, but had never touched her life.

Now she saw the man who would be her master when she passed from the rule of her father. Why had she not fled with Ike? The thought flashed through her mind that she might still fly, and in the thinking of it knew that she might not. She loved her father, but the secret of his power over her was not love. All her life his word had been her law; among all the folk she knew the father was king in the home. There were none of her people so despised as those who disobeyed parental commands. The least and the greatest things of her life were ordered for her by his will. She came and went, sat or rose, ate, worked or slept when he gave the word. She was not a slave beaten into obedience, she was a daughter trained from the cradle to be subordinate to a father's authority.

She did not dare dispute his command. Braun was to be her husband. The thing was as good as done. He had asked her father for her and she had been given.

Miriam looked upon the strange man who was to be her husband. From the screen in the gallery of the synagogue she had peered upon his face glorified by the greatness of the words issuing from his trumpet mouth. This Braun was not the cantor in the temple. No holy light touched his face, but rather the light of battle and conquest. His black eyes were bright with desire; his mouth was parted as a runner's panting at the height of his race and the cruel, deep lines from nostrils to his lips showed black through his thin, red beard.

She seemed to smell the reek of his long-worn, shabby clothing and the odor of the narrow quarters in which they would dwell with scant privacy. His hands, bludgeoned by years of toil and his legs made crooked by the tailor's bench, were grotesque horrors to her mind, for side by side with Braun she saw the cleanliness, straightness, deftness and wealth of the man she loved.

It seemed years passed while she studied the man she must wed and the sound of her own voice came strangely to her ears, from far off in space and time.

"Zare is your husband," her father had said.

"Yes, father," she answered.

Then from the court she heard the laughter of Ike Levy. He was coming to her, but she might not see him. He would expect to see her at the door and he would call her "Dalala" and then, ah, if she heard it she would die!

In sudden sympathy and compunction her father seized the shrinking, fainting girl and thrust her into the darkness of the inner room.

"Hap nisht," he whispered, "be patient," and went forth in his patriarchal dignity to beard the laughing Goy, and following fiercely was Sammie Braun.

WHEN TO BE A STERN PARENT.

Don't Close Your Eyes When Cupid Comes in Unworthy State to Court Your Daughter.

BY CLARA REESE.

DON'T be too sure of it! Don't pat your timorous wife on the shoulder and say, "tut, tut, it is only a passing fancy; the child will get over it."

Don't dismiss a serious case with the blindness of a bat, and try to befog the brain and eyesight of your better half. The downright truth is that the young folks are going ahead in their love-making and will soon be "engaged" right under your nose, and then it will be "too late" to do anything more than to fume and storm and declare yourself as opposed to the match. You must be up with the lark if you would outwit Cupid in his game of shooting arrows into hearts!

It is a way the masculine parent has sometimes of shirking his rightful responsibility of refusing to listen to details when the anxious mother is speaking; declining to be bored with silly nonsense of her imagining; or, even when chivalrous, of going no further than to stroke her hair and to urge the dismissal of foolish worry with, "there, there, it is only a child's whim; don't bother your head for an instant."

But the mother heart knows better, and with a sigh for the extra care and watchfulness that you have turned over to her, the anxious scrutiny is kept up, the tears fall in secret, the agony is borne alone. Nice stuff you are made of, not to do your share in the home,, even when it comes to a most vital crisis, a happening on which your child's future comfort and happiness depends. Nice, brave sort of parent, shifting a responsibility of this sort until it is too late to utter a protest, or look up records, or to verify facts that all the neighborhood seems to be conversant with and talking about.

Blind as a bat and just as senseless as the hostler who carefully bars and bolts the stable after the horse is stolen!

There are young folks and young folks; the kind you have are likely to have inherited easy-going dispositions like your own and are inclined to take what comes along with eyes shut, just floating along to a tragedy! Who knows how much fathers like you will have to answer for when the general roll of wholesale marital discord is called up yonder? The average father, by his very aloofness in the rearing of his offspring, has clothed himself with a final authority, not to be gainsaid when command is given; you might have nipped the pernicious fancy at the outset; a trumpet-like tone in time of real danger has settled many a "case" when the "case" was in its incipiency.

Young folks have rights, of course; rights which even stern fathers are bound to respect; and one holy right is the right of selecting their mates. But it is where the experienced eyes of the elders see troubles ahead, shiftlessness, incompetency, dissipation, rascality, or milestones about the neck, that the facts should be confronted, no rose-colored glasses or shades of any sort worn, especially where the daughter or the son is obviously caught by glamor, and basks only in the present sunshine.

Don't hesitate; when Cupid comes in unworthy estate to court your child, kick him out, neck, heels and darts!

MONEY OUTLOOK FOR RAILWAYS.

From the Wall Street Journal.

One of the tangible factors in the present widespread business depression is the inability of the railroads to obtain new capital at reasonable rates of interest. The opinion among most representative bond houses in Wall street is that the market for practically all kinds of sound investments is slowly but steadily improving; in fact, railroad bankers are apparently more cheerful than they have been at any time in the last 12 months. Nevertheless, it is admitted that the demand for bonds, notes and other railroad obligations will probably not be sufficient to absorb a great quantity of securities during the next six months.

LIFE-SAVING SUIT OF CLOTHES.

A NORWEGIAN inventor has patented a suit of clothes which is said to protect its wearer against drowning. The garments are lined with a non-absorbent material made of specially prepared vegetable fiber which, without being too heavy, will effectively hold up the weight of a man in the water. Twelve ounces of the new material will, it is claimed, save a person from sinking. The invention has been tested with favorable results at Christiania. Successful trials were also made with rugs made of the same material, capable of supporting two persons in the water.

"BOOKS" have progressed from the days when they were only wooden rods or bits of bark. For the deprivation which connects "books" directly with "beech," both having been "boc" in Anglo-Saxon, is the favorite one. "Buchstaben," the German word for letters of the alphabet, means literally "beech-staves." Many book words go back to such vegetable origin.

A Nemo TRIPLE STRIP SELF-REDUCING CORSET FOR EVERY STOUT WOMAN

MORE than a million stout women know that the Nemo Self-Reducing is the only corset that positively reduces the abdomen with perfect comfort and hygienic safety.

EVERY woman who has worn it knows that the Nemo Self-Reducing Corset is superior to all others in comfort, style and durability—that it is an extraordinary value simply as a corset, saying nothing about its invaluable and exclusive special features.

FOR 1908 are nine handsome models, all pictured on this page; a model for every stout woman—tall and stout, short and stout, or just "fat and dumpy." And there's a price to suit every purse.

At $3.00 The old favorites, Nos. 312 and 314, of which nearly a million pairs were sold in 1907; and for women who want the new "slender-hip" effect are the two new "Flatning-Back" models, Nos. 318 and 320, at the same price—$3.00.

At $5.00 Somewhat finer are the Mercerized Brocaded Corsets, Nos. 516 and 518; the French Coutil Corsets with bust supporters, No. 515; and the beautiful new "Flatning-Back" model, No. 517—all these at $5.00.

At $10 For women of luxurious tastes, who have paid $15 to $25 for imported corsets, is the superb No. 1000, with "Flatning-Back" and the new "Duplex Straps," at $10.00. This is the finest corset that can be made—superior in every respect to the best that come from France. It will do wonders for any stout figure, giving it the graceful lines of youth.

Economy Our enormous output of Self-Reducing Corsets insures stout women a saving of at least one-half what they are accustomed to pay. One Nemo Self-Reducing Corset, at $3.00, will outwear three average $1.00 corsets.

The Nemo Corset is the only corset that is more than a corset. The only one that has exclusive features of great hygienic merit. The only one that does something for you that no other corset can do.

You will find NEMO CORSETS in all good stores throughout the world where Corsets are sold.

WADDELL'S SPEED DOES NOT WORRY LOCAL CATCHERS

McAleer's Backstops Thought to Have Ability to Handle Great Southpaw Twirler.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

A NUMBER of St. Louis' baseball fans are fearing that none of the catchers of the Browns' team will be successful working with the Mighty Rube Waddell. They say the great speed of the veteran southpaw will unbalance any backstop that McAleer has on his squad.

But Rube is not a hard man to catch. There are lots of catchers who delight in working with speedy hurlers such as he. Most catchers will say that speed, no matter how great, is nothing compared to curves. McAleer himself expects that Spencer will be a great success with the Rube.

The big ex-Philadelphian has such perfect control that a catcher with any ability could sit in a rocking chair behind the batsman and pick off the ball with ease. Rube can stick the ball any place he desires when he is having a good day, and when he is not having a good day, he will be sitting on the bench or the river bank.

CATCHER SCHRECK of the Athletics has made quite a reputation catching Waddell, and yet Schreck is not the greatest catcher in the American League, by several points. He is not as heavy a man as Spencer or O'Connor, and yet he has never been knocked off his feet by the speed of the great twirler.

In Harry Howell, Spencer has been catching a much harder man to hold than Rube ever was or ever will be. Howell throws the spitball much of the time while in the box, and that is the hardest delivery to hold of anything yet tried by the up-to-date pitchers. Nevertheless, Spencer has made a big success at handling it.

THE spitball has a quick break and at the same time comes with such speed that a catcher has to be always alert in order to hold the ball, and at the same time be ready to shoot it to second base if a runner is likely to go down. No catcher in the business will say today that a speedy ball is as hard to handle.

Spencer has a wonderful arm. He can shoot the ball to the middle corner with greater speed than any catcher in the business today. As he is a man above 200 pounds in weight, it is hard to see how even the speed of Waddell will unbalance him so that he cannot throw to second. With a few games for practice, Waddell and Spencer should work in such form that base stealing against them will be almost entirely eradicated. Spencer is still a bit young at the game and needs a little more experience, but no one denies the power of his throwing arm, and before the coming season is over he should have made a reputation for himself as the greatest of them all.

JACK O'CONNOR, the veteran backstop of the Browns, should have no trouble whatever with Waddell. He is a man of too much experience to be baffled by a speedy ball. Catcher Blue, who comes from the American Association for a trial with the Browns, is also a man of ability as a backstop, and those who have seen him work say that he will make good and hold Waddell or any of them.

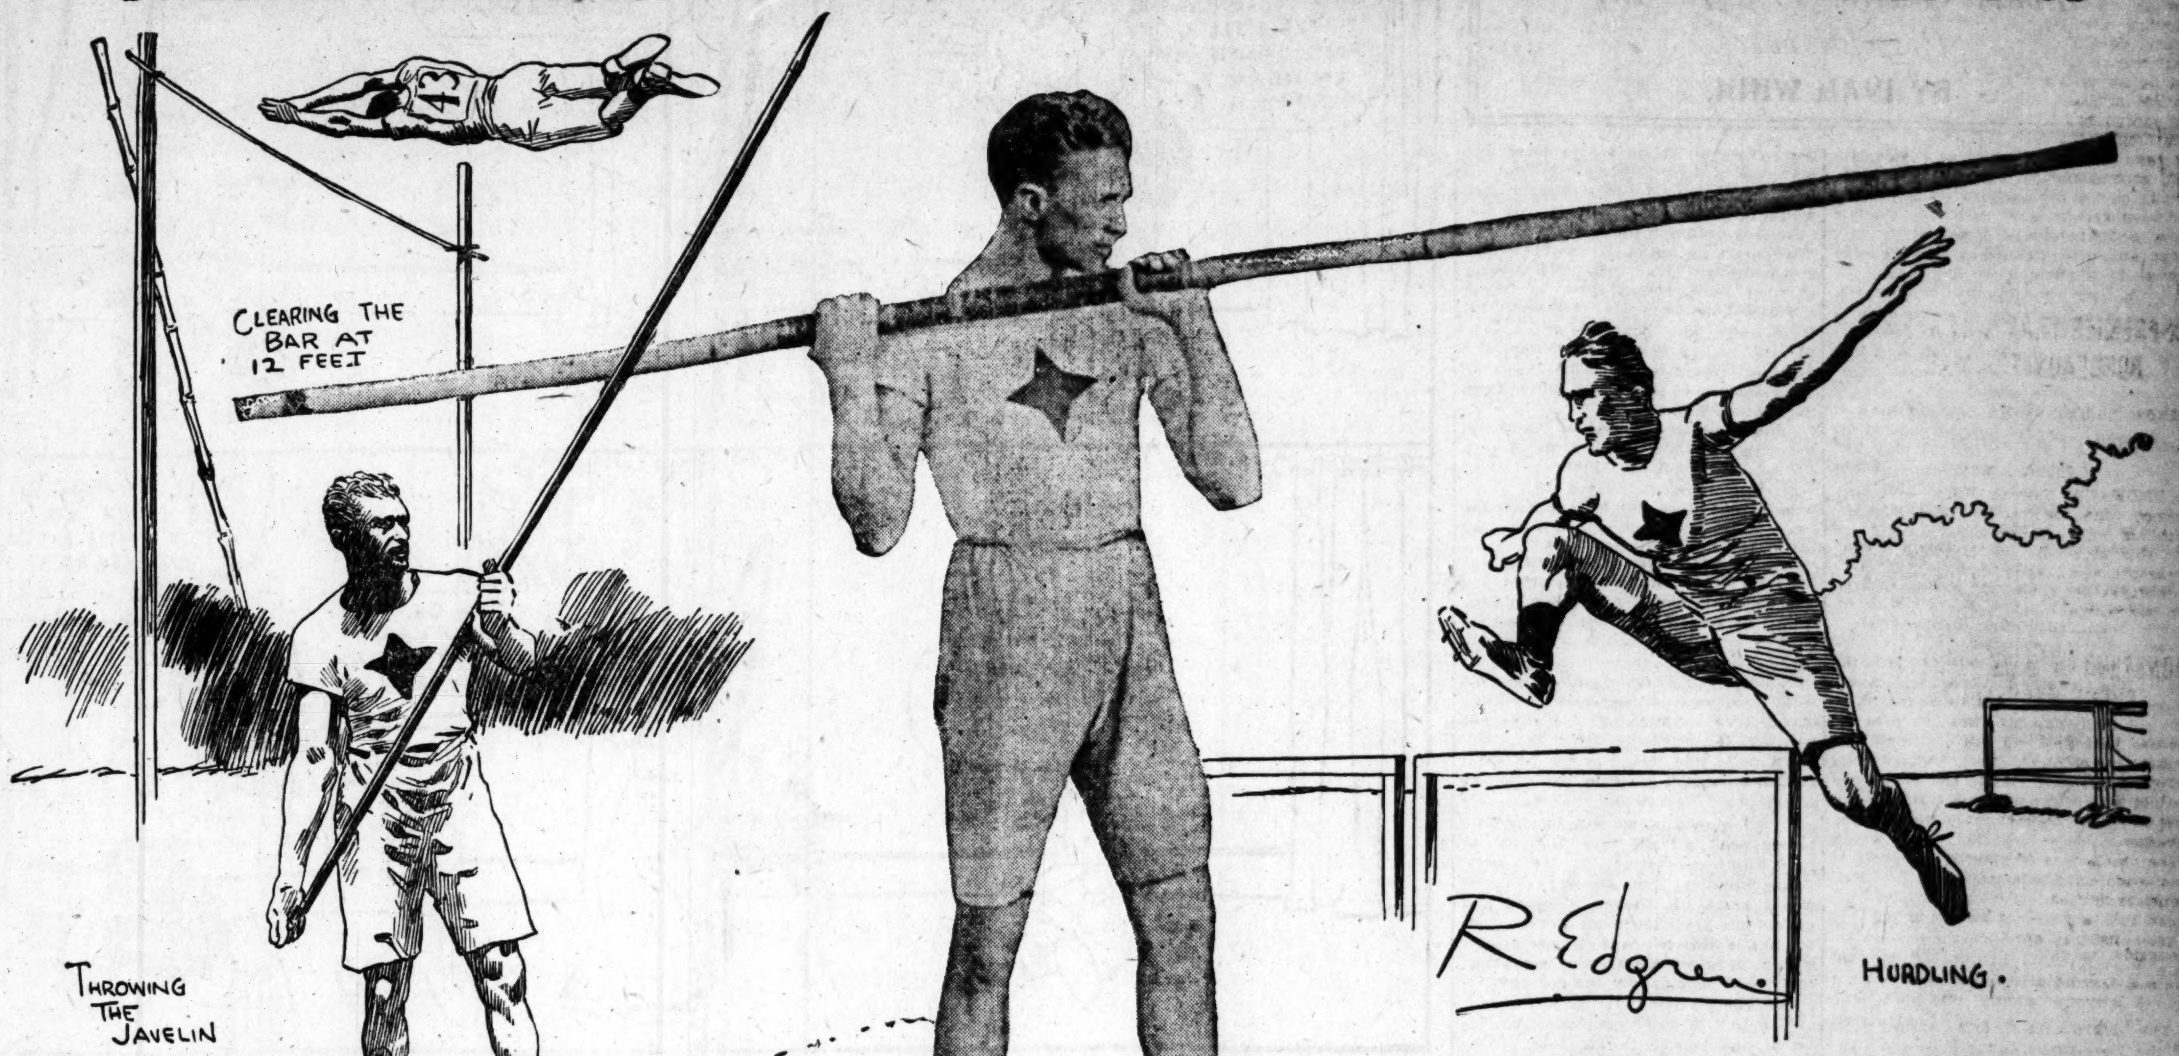
In two weeks for this time, the heavyweights of the Browns' squad will be taking a course of water and hill climbing over at French Lick Springs as the first work of the coming season. The bunch of 10 or a dozen of the older and heavier men will leave a week from Saturday for the Indiana resort. Waddell is expected here the latter part of this week and may be sent over to the springs at once along with Jack Powell, who is so anxious to begin the grind for the coming year on the diamond.

PRESIDENT ROBISON of the Cardinals has announced that it is the intention of Manager McCloskey to put his young infielder, Charles, at third base as soon as the Cardinals begin practice down in Houston. Charles is a second baseman from the Tri-State League, and reports down there say that he is a better second sacker than Billy Gilbert, the veteran ex-New York Giant, who is to be with the local National Leaguers this season. But Charles is a youngster with a grand throwing arm and McCloskey expects to make a place for him on the third corner and move Bobby Byrne over to shrotstop position.

THE Cardinals will start South on March 2, one day earlier than was first announced, because, not being able to take advantage of the railroad rate that goes in effect on March 3, they will go ahead of it so as to avoid the crowd in the trip.

There is still a possibility of McCloskey's getting Mike Mowrey of the Cincinnati club. Mike is a splendid third baseman, with experience and ability, and would be a great help to the Cardinal club. A deal has been pending all winter for the exchange of one of the Cardinals for the Cincinnati infielder, and it may be put through at the coming meeting in New York on Feb. 24.

SWEDEN'S CHAMPION WHO HAS COME TO STUDY AMERICAN ATHLETICS



INNISFAILS ARE BEATEN IN SPITE OF AMMANS

Soccer Team Now Tied With St. Mathews for Lead in Athletic Park League.

Although the Innisfails were strengthened by the addition of "Butch" Ammans to the forward line, the Benld (Ill.) men went down to defeat before the St. Teresas in the opening game of the Athletic Park League double-header Sunday afternoon, 1 to 0. The result of the game was a big surprise. The Innisfails as a result of their defeat are now tied with the St. Matthews for the lead in the league, each team having a total of 17 points.

The Innisfails have been conceded to be the strongest team in the league. It is composed of Scotchmen who played the game in England and Scotland. The majority of the players reside in Benld, Ill., and come to St. Louis each Sunday to play with the team. Up to yesterday the team has been in the lead of the league.

Up to Sunday the Innisfails had been playing excellent football. The Thistles team a week ago Sunday, by some ... st football, tied the Innisfails. Sunday the Thistles, by an excellent exhibition of soccer, tied the St. Matthews, neither team being able to score. The St. Matthews could have taken the lead in the league by a victory Sunday, but were unable to deliver the goods. The race is now close. The Innisfails will have to show better form than they have for the past two weeks to win out from the St. Matthews.

Manager Whelan of the Innisfails thought he made a ten-strike in securing Ammans, the star player of the Kulage Park League, to jump his contract and play with the Innisfails. Sunday it seemed as though every player on the St. Teresas was paying particular attention to "Butch." Ammans found Walter Devoy of the St. Teresas as one man whose orders were to stay with Ammans all the time. Devoy blocked off Ammans time after time when the former St. Leo's star tried to shoot for goal.

In the second game between the St. Mathews and Thistles an amusing incident came up. The teams were battling hard when the forward line of the former team worked the ball down to the Thistles' goal. During some play near the uprights, Goalkeeper Chew of the Thistles made a swing at the ball with his fist to bat the leather out. Chew missed the ball and struck Forward Clancy of the St. Mathews on the face. Another St. Mathews player stopped the ball. Clancy for a few seconds thought that Chew had intended to strike him. He started to fight with Chew and made one swing at the Thistles' goal-minder, which failed to land. Chew apologized to Clancy, stating that he had not intended hitting him, and the game was resumed.

The defeat of the Kinlochs by the Shamrocks was the surprise of the Kulage Park League double-header at Kulage Park. The Kinlochs are in second position in the league standing. The team found the Shamrocks a vastly improved eleven over the team that proved easy picking early in the league race. Hagerty scored the Kinlochs' only goal. Byrnes and Fitzgerald each scored a goal for the Shamrocks.

The St. Leos kept up their great record by walking away from the North Ends, 3 to 0. The St. Leos have not lost a game so far this season. The team is sure to win the pennant. Klosterman's eleven now has a total of 22 points. The Kinlochs are in second position with 14 points.

BURNS A STRONG FAVORITE OVER PALMER BEFORE BOUT

American Champion Expects to Put the Englishman Away in Six Rounds.

BOTH BOXERS CONFIDENT

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—"I will stop Palmer before the tenth round, I cannot possibly lose."—Tommy Burns.

"I will stay the 20 rounds and give Burns a good trouncing or quit fighting forever."—Jack Palmer.

There were the statements made today by Tommy Burns, the American heavyweight champion, and Jack Palmer, the English pugilist, prior to their stepping into the ring for their 20-round contest tonight.

LONDON, Feb. 10. Tommy Burns, the American heavy weight pugilist, who will meet Jack Palmer of New Castle tonight for the heavy-weight championship, has been forced to forego a part of his usual training during the past week on account of a severe cold and a strainen tendon in the right foot, but he is confident of his ability to make short work of his opponent.

The American is still a strong favorite in the betting. Even the North countymen who are noted for the way in which they will back an Englishman against a foreign fighter, are asking long odds before laying their money. They have offered, however, to place $5000 at 2 to 1 that Palmer will stay six rounds. Burns backers have not taken this bet, but Burns nevertheless believes that the fight will not last longer than that.

He said today that he intended to make the contest as short as possible, as he has an engagement to give a number of exhibitions next week and must get into shape again for the fight in Dublin on March 17, for which Richard Croker, the former Tammany leader, and one of the backers of Jem Roche, the Irish champion, whom Burns will meet, is returning from Egypt.

Palmer is considered a somewhat better fighter than Gunner Moir, whom Burns put away in 10 rounds, but has a reputation for hitting low, it being on an alleged foul blow that Moir was given the decision over him when last they met.

The betting at the clubs is 10 to 4 in favor of Burns. Robert Watson, a sporting writer, whom Burns wanted as referee in his fight with Moir, will act in that capacity in the fight tomorrow.

Burns has been offered $10,000 to go to Paris in April to meet a French boxer.

ROLLER SKATERS READY FOR START OF RACES

Earl Sanford, the diminutive St. Louis skater, is expected to win the first preliminary heat for the one-mile roller-skating championship at the Jai Alai Roller Rink this evening, and also the semi-final heat to be skated tonight. Six out-of-town men will compete against him.

The first preliminary heat will be started at 9 p. m. Three local men and three skaters from other cities will compete. The second heat will be started at 9:15 p. m. Three out-of-town and three local skaters will face Starter Frank Pears in this heat also. In the semi-final, to be started at 10 p. m., the first, second and third men in each heat will compete. The winner of the semi-final heat will qualify for the final, to be skated Saturday night.

Twelve hundred dollars in prize money and diamond medals valued at $500 have been offered for the Jai Alai races. The events will be one, two and three miles. It will take a week to decide each event, two preliminary and one semi-final heat to be run off each night, with the exception of Saturday night, when the finals will be skated.

The entries of over thirty out-of-town men have been received. About a dozen out-of-town skaters are at present in St. Louis. Ollie Moore, holder of the one and five mile championships, will arrive from Cincinnati Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. Moore claims Charlevoix, Mich., as his home.

Charles Williams, Boston.
Charles Hanley, St. Louis.
Semi-final heat at 10 p. m., first three in each preliminary heat to qualify.
Winner of semi-final to qualify for final Saturday night.
Starter—Frank Pears.
Referee—C. A. Vandenberg.

Leo Jones of St. Louis, holder of the two-mile championship, is hardly expected to compete in anything before the two-mile championship race. Jones broke his collar bone in the five-mile race at Pittsburg recently. Jim Sweeney, Leo Jones and Earl Sandford are the local skaters who are expected to make the best showing in the races.

Harley Davidson, winner of the one and three mile championship races at the Jai Alai last year for $1000 in prize money and medals, has yet to enter this year's contests.

The races will be under the sanction of the Western Skating Association.

WASHINGTON TO BID FOR 1911 BOWLING MEET

National Capital Has Big Delegation at Cincinnati Tourney.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 10.—Washington is to be a candidate for the American Bowling Congress meeting in 1911, according to a statement by Ed Meyer, first vice-president of the congress, who arrived here late yesterday with a big delegation from the national capital. He wants to see Pittsburg and Detroit entertain the bowlers first and then will ask for the meeting.

Incidentally he declared his delegates were pushing him for the presidency this year, but that he would decline to run if Garry Herrmann intended to make the running. Herrmann will almost certainly run, so that it looks as though Meyer would not be a serious contender this time.

Special matches are flying around thick and fast. The latest proposition is for a family match between Martin Kern, his wife and daughter against Joe Thremm and Mrs. and Miss Thremm of Toledo. Details will probably be clinched today and the families roll early next week.

The Marquette Women's Club of St. Louis rolled a special match yesterday at the Westwood alleys against a team composed of former National Champion Martin Kern and four local bowlers, defeating them two out of three games by a margin of 36 on total pins. Miss Birdie Kern, national champion, rolled the high score with 209, and averaged 174 2-3. Mrs. Martin Kern averaged 178, both of them beating Mr. Kern. Birdie afterwards beat Frank Krollman in a special game, the scores being 190 and 168.

John Ganzel and Archie Smith of Grand Rapids will probably take the place of Tuthill and Nelson, the National Bowling Congress champions, in the big match between the four champions of last year. Permission has not been secured from the congress as yet for the switch, but it is understood that neither of the Brooklyn men can come West and the other contestants are not expected to demur at the switch.

GRUPPE AGAIN WINS IN RING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Billy Gruppe, the St. Louis lightweight fighter, won his twenty-fifth out of 26 fights when he gained the decision over Harry Scroggs of Baltimore in a six-round contest at the Millionaire Club, in this city last Saturday night. Gruppe's great reach and his cleverness won for him.

VANDERBILT'S COACH HORSES ARE SHIPPED TO ENGLAND

Thoroughbreds of America Off for Drive on Coach "Venture."

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Eighty trotting coach horses, the property of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, sailed aboard the steamer Minneapolis for London yesterday. They are the horses which Mr. Vanderbilt will use in driving the coach Venture on the historic London-Brighton course next spring.

The coach which is being completed will follow on a later steamer, but several breaks and private carriages accompanied the horses. The famous grays that created a sensation at the International Horse Show last year are included in those on the way to London, and with two new grays will constitute the team that will be driven on the first portion of the coach journey out of London.

Mr. Vanderbilt does not expect to bring any of the horses back to America, but will sell them all at an auction at Tattersalls, June 29, the Monday following the close of the International Horse Show. These will be the first American trotting bred coach horses seen in England, and is expected to attract much attention.

Freshmen to Meet McKinley.

The Freshman athletes of the St. Louis University, including many of the stars from local high schools last season are to compete in a deul meet Wednesday afternoon at the varsity gymnasium against the track team of the McKinley High School. Coach Cochems of the varsity team hopes to have his youngsters take part in a triangular meet with the McKinley High School and Western Military Academy in the near future.

Remarkable Bits of Sport

BY JOE CAPRON.
Famous Billiard Player.

I HAVE a gold medal at home emblematic of the Canadian 14.2 balkline billiard championship that I would not part with for a large sum of money. It was about 1890 I won the trophy, after some of the hardest billiards that I have ever played.

I held the championship when George Sutton, the present 18.2 billiard champion, arrived at Toronto. He challenged me and I beat him in a 500-point game. We played again in Galt, Ontario, my home, and Sutton won. I challenged Sutton and won the trophy back, and Sutton challenged me and turned the tables. I challenged Sutton again, but he forfeited the trophy to me, and I still hold it.

All these matches were for $250 a side, and Sutton and I played our heads off. All the matches were close.

After Sutton had won the championship a manufacturer offered a valuable cue as a special prize to the winner of the second match. He wanted to make the cue to the order of the winner, and Sutton was so sure of beating me that he ordered the cue man to go ahead and make the stick. I won and the next day the cue man had to start a new cue.

Sutton was pretty sore over his defeat, and after he again had the championship and confidence that he could beat me, got the cuemaker to make the same sort of an agreement. Sutton told him some time in advance to make the cue for him, as he would surely beat me. The cuemaker thought Sutton was due to win, and as he promised to pay all expenses if he did not, started to work. I beat George again and ordered an entirely different cue than Sutton had ordered, so George had to pay for his stick and the bill came to quite an amount.

M. A. C. FIVE TO MEET QUINCY

Crack Basket Ball Teams Will Clash Monday Night.

The Quincy (Ill.) and Cherry Diamond basket ball teams will meet in a game at the M. A. C. Monday evening. The Cherry Diamond team is training hard for the game with the Missouri University five to be played at Columbia, Mo., next Saturday night. The contest this evening is expected to prove easy for Capt. Arhelger's men, as the Quincy team went down to defeat before the local five last year.

WANTED

Every Person in St. Louis to Know What Vinol is and How it is Made.

For sometime we have recommended Vinol to the people of St. Louis as the best cod liver preparation and tonic reconstructor we have ever sold.

To prove the reliability and genuineness of this successful remedy and that it is in no sense a patent medicine, the people of St. Louis will find on every package of Vinol not only a statement of the ingredients Vinol contains, but an illustration in colors showing just how Vinol is made from fresh cods' livers and peptonate of iron, which is a needful constituent for the blood.

This proves in a very convincing manner to the people of St. Louis the origin from which Vinol derives its wonderful curative power, and that it is a real cod liver preparation made by a scientific process which eliminates the useless oil and retains all the active medicinal principles.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled.

Try it on our offer to return your money if it fails. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.

JOHNSON WILL FORCE BURNS TO ACCEPT MATCH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Tommy Burns, the American heavyweight champion, who is fighting international contests with English pugilists of low rating, insists on 75 per cent of the purse, win, lose or draw, for a fight with John Johnson, the big negro who has been promised a match with Burns as soon as Tommy's "donation party" in England ends.

Burns' demands have stirred Sam Fitzpatrick, manager of Johnson, to action, and he is beginning a campaign which he believes will force Burns into recognizing Johnson's plea for a chance at the championship title.

Yesterday Manager Fitzpatrick wrote to James W. Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter, detailing the conditions under which he will make a match for his charge against Burns. It is part of Fitzpatrick's plan to have Burns forced by public opinion to make a match with Johnson.

San Francisco, Goldfield and Ely, Nev., promoters are eager to bid for the contest. Johnson would fight Jeffries and give the big fellow 75 per cent of the purse, win or lose, because of the prestige a victory would give the negro. But Johnson's manager insists that the negro is a better drawing card than Burns and that the American champion is unreasonable in his demands.

Johnson is willing to fight Burns and make a big side bet that he will stop Tommy inside of 20 rounds.

Sutton-Hoppe Match, March 17.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Subject to the approval of Willie Hoppe, his challenge for 18.2 balk-line billiard championship with George Sutton will be held in Madison Square Garden, this city, on or about March 17, this being the date selected by Sutton and submitted to the issuer of the challenge.

TOZER AND ELLIS TIED FOR LEAD IN BILLIARD TOURNEY

Each Man Has Six Games Won and Two Lost at Hauser.

Tozer and Ellis are tied for the lead in the red ball billiard tournament at the Hauser, each man having won 6 games and lost 2. Both men have completed their regular schedule of games and if they are tied at the end, will have to play off for the first prize. Tozer has made the high run of the tournament with 11 points. Lyons and Cross will play Monday evening.

But three games remain to be played in the three-cushion billiard tournament at the Rex. Gundaker will play Kraemer Monday evening. Glynn is in the lead at present with 7 games won and 0 lost.

Abel and Merrill will meet in the class B three-cushion tournament match at the Grand Billiard Hall Monday night. Decker and Abel are tied for the lead. Each man has won 7 games and lost 2.

Stotesbur Sells Sweet Marie.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 10.—E. T. Stotesbury has sold Sweet Marie, the famous trotter, 2:02 to William Bradley of Red Bud Bank, N. J., owner of Maj. Delmar, 1:59¾. The price paid by Mr. Bradley for the mare was not announced.

OBSTINATE ULCERS
MAY LEAD TO CANCER

There is no difference, at first, in the appearance of a cancerous and a common ulcer, and for this reason every sore that is obstinate or slow in healing should excite suspicion, for the sore is nothing more than the external evidence of a polluted blood, and if allowed to remain may degenerate into Cancer. Efforts to heal the ulcer by means of salves, plasters and other external remedies always result in failure, because such treatment can have no possible effect on the blood, where the deadly germs and morbid matter form, and are carried through the circulation to the place. No sore or ulcer can exist without a predisposing internal cause, and the open, discharging ulcer or festering old sore will continue to eat deeper into the surrounding flesh as long as a polluted, germ-infected circulation discharges its impurities into it. S. S. S. goes to the fountainhead of the trouble, and drives out the germ-producing poisons and morbid impurities which keep the ulcer open. Then as this rich, purified blood goes to the diseased place the healing begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation gradually leaves, new tissue and healthy flesh are formed, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots and herbs of a healing, cleansing nature, and unlike mineral medicines, which often do great damage to the delicate parts of the system, S. S. S. tones up every part of the body. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free.

PASTOR'S HOME ROBBED WHILE HE IS PREACHING

Son Taken Ill in Church Goes to House, Hears Thieves and Runs for Mother.

Burglars stole $35 from a tin box at the home of the Rev. Frank Brinkmeyer while the minister was conducting services at the German Methodist Church.

During the church services his son Henry, aged 10 years, was taken ill and went home. He found the rear door of the house unlocked and heard a commotion upstairs. He hurried back to the church and told his mother, who in turn notified the police. Patrolmen Mertens and Zulauf were sent to the house and, accompanied by Mrs. Brinkmeyer, found the tin box in which the money had been kept in a bureau drawer, open on a bed and the contents gone. A silver and gold watch and some small change in a purse were not taken.

EX-PREMIER FRANCO LEAVES BORDEAUX FOR MARSEILLES

Makes Sudden Trip With Family, Keeping Plans Secret Until Last Moment.

BORDEAUX, France, Feb. 10.—Senhor Franco, the ex-Premier of Portugal, with his wife and son, left this city at 7:4 this morning for Marseilles. The departure was made suddenly, the hotel authorities being notified of the step at the last moment.

MONSTERS OF DEEP FIGHT AS SHIP'S PASSENGERS WATCH

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—Passengers on the steamer City of Para, which arrived yesterday from Panama, reported that when off San Lucas they saw a battle between a whale and a thrasher.

The whale was of enormous size and was evidently the aggressor. The sea monsters battled viciously, churning the ocean into a mass of bloody foam.

After fighting for nearly an hour alongside the ship the whale seemed to gain the mastery and both dove into the sea, leaving a wake of crimson.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

ONCE WORTH $25,000,000; NAMED AS $2300 DEFAULTER

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 10.—Two indictments charging embezzlement of $2300, have been found against George I. Whitney, head of Whitney & Stephenson, brokers, members of the New York Stock Exchange, and F. L. Stephenson, and Irwin M. Fickleson, his partners. The firm failed for $7,500,000.

Whitney was formerly interested in many enterprises with H. C. Frick and his fortune was estimated a short time ago at $25,000,000.

1907 GREATEST OF ALL YEARS

In the History of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

FOUR STARTLING FACTS!

Fact 1—The Post-Dispatch the only St. Louis newspaper showing a Gain in Daily Circulation.

Fact 2—The Post-Dispatch the only St. Louis newspaper showing a Gain in Sunday Circulation.

Fact 3—The Post-Dispatch the only St. Louis newspaper showing a Gain in Columns of Advertising.

Fact 4—The Post-Dispatch the only St. Louis newspaper showing a Gain in Want Advertising.

THE TOTAL FIGURES.

Daily Circulation (av. per day)..161,477
Sunday Circulation (av. per day)..252,45?
Columns of Advertising (total, less cheap legal)..................... 35,486
Want Advertising (total—none free) 641,719

THE NET GAINS,

1907 over 1906 were
6,540 in Daily Circulation,
9,961 in Sunday Circulation,
102 in Columns of Advertising,
12,465 in Want Advertisements.

NOTWITHSTANDING,

First—the "panic" and the advent of another evening newspaper in the Post-Dispatch's field;

Second—That all other St. Louis newspapers, without exception, showed losses, both in circulation and advertising, compared with 1906.

FAR IN THE LEAD!

During 1907 the Post-Dispatch carried 12,231 more columns of advertising than the Globe-Democrat;

18,331 more columns of advertising than the Republic;

210,758 more "Want" advertisements than the Globe-Democrat;

287,790 more "Want" advertisements than the Republic.

SUNDAY SUPREMACY.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch, on 47 Sundays out of the 52 in 1907 carried a greater volume of paid advertising than the Globe-Democrat, which was for a quarter of a century prior to 1906, the leader in the Sunday field.

THE REASONS.

Four-fifths of the sales of the Daily Post-Dispatch are in St. Louis and its suburbs.

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs every day in the year, are greater than the sales of all the other St. Louis morning and evening papers, COMBINED, in the same territory.

THE TWO DISTINCTIVE MERITS Which have brought the Post-Dispatch its continuing and ever-increasing success are unswerving fidelity to the people and adequate returns to advertisers.

N. Y. STOCKS SHARPLY LOWER AT OPENING

General Recessions Mark Initial Sales—Delaware & Hudson Leads Decline.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Stocks opened sharply lower on the Exchange this morning. The declines were general, and in several instances of a serious character. Deleware and Hudson, with a loss of 2½ points from the close, was the heaviest loser, then came Northern Pacific with 1½, and Brooklyn Rapid Transit with 1⅛ decline. Harriman Pacifics slumped to the extent of about a point each, while Reading and Atchison were lower by ⅞ of a point. Other rail issues were from ⅛ to ⅝ below parity.

Anaconda was the weakest member in the industrial division, with a loss of ⅞. Other losses in the industrial ranged from ¼ to ¾ of a point.

Most of the issues varied little from their opening sales, but several of the more prominent rail stocks developed weakness in the early trading, among them being Reading and Mo. Pacific. The latter made another new record in the first few sales, going to 39½. Trading in Reading was slower than usual, and Northern Pacific was active. The market acted as if it might sell off.

American securities in London were from ¼ to 1 point lower.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10, 12:30 p. m.—Heavy liquidation in the forenoon hours sent stocks tumbling down. The recessions strongly affected the most conservative and best-managed corporations on the list.

Canadian Pacific and Chicago & Northwestern declined 3 points each. B. & O. was off 2⅛, and Reading and Southern Pacific almost 2 points. St. Paul and Northern Pacific, on active trading, followed the general trend with a drop of 1¾ each.

Declines of from ½ to 1½ were made in other rail issues, and at noon the tone of the market was decidedly weak.

As usual the industrials followed the lead of the rails, with American Sugar the heaviest loser. Smelting was off 1¼ from its opening.

TICKER TALK

Call money on New York Exchange opened at 2 per cent Monday.

St. Louis Money Market.

Some of the local markets are less eager to extend accommodations at present, owing to their recent heavy reception of additional credits. The prospects are that unless there is a further large increase in deposits there will be less free offerings of funds than have been shown during the past two weeks. Rates are still firm at 6 per cent, although there are instances where purchases made by the country are at a fractionally lower level. Collections continue fair as a general rule, though no improvement has been shown in various sections.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Some early selling of B. R. T. by Halstead and Hedges and other houses gave a depressed tone to that stock in the early trading. There is a general feeling that some time between now and the first of May, when the extension of the Subway to the Long Island depot at Flatbush avenue will be completed, there will be an attempt to discount the effect of the B. R. T. earnings. It is suggested that the present decline is largely of this nature, and that when the outsider sells on that development the present shorts will be ready to cover.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Liquidation continues by commission houses. Pell & Co., large buyers of general market, supposed to be covering of shorts.

LOCAL CLEARING HOUSE STATEMENT.

Clearings—Today, $10,988,238; last week, $12,715,428; decrease, $1,727,190.

Balances—Today, $892,443; last week, $1,018,412; decrease, $125,969.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The remarkable steadiness of the Copper stocks in London, where rest of the list sold off, was reflected in the prices of Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda. There is some accumulation going on in the former stock, at least sufficient to hold the price easily against bear attacks.

TRACTION ISSUES SHOW WEAKNESS AT 1ST SESSION

Fractional Loss in Preferred and 4s, While Common Loses 1 Point.

On moderate trading traction issues sold fractionally lower than the prevailing quotations Saturday. Fifty shares of the preferred sold at 62½, as against 63 Saturday. One hundred and thirty-five of the common changed hands at the uniform price of 20, one point lower than Saturday.

Four thousand dollars of the 4s sold at ⅛ less, but offerings were not below 79.

The closing quotations on common denoted weakness in that stock.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

January failure reports to Bradstreet's show a large number of embarrassments and a heavy aggregate of liabilities. The first was to be expected after the end-of-the-year settlements had revealed the full proportions of the damage done in the last quarter of 1907, while the immense liabilities are a result of the suspension of crippled financial institutions which had weathered the panic with aid, but proved too weak to continue, once this support was withdrawn. The net result is a total number of failures the largest for any month for 11 years and only seven times exceeded in the past 15 years. Furthermore, there is a total of liabilities only twice exceeded in 1907, and only three times exceeded in the past 15 years.

The following table allows of comparisons back to 1898:

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 10.—Estimated receipts today compare with a week and a year ago as follows:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	4,000	3,100	5,100
Hogs	7,000	7,700	7,600
Sheep	800	3,300	3,100
Horses and mules	1,500	1,600	1,200

NATIVE CATTLE—About 2800 of the day's receipts consisted of native cattle, and fully one-third that number were beef steers. Some good kinds as well as a large number of medium and fair grades. Liberal supplies at other markets caused trading to be rather slow at 10c lower prices, and in extreme cases even lower. Some good steers sold from $5.40 to $5.60, with bulk of the sales at $4.65 to $5.25. There was a fair number of butcher cattle on offer and they sold on the early market at about steady values, with late sales showing some weakness, in sympathy with the decline on beef steers. Cows sold up to $4.50 and some heifers at $4.60.

There was a fair number of calves on sale and they sold 25c under closing prices last week, with tops bringing $7.75.

The supply of stockers and feeders was only fair and trading rather quiet, with early sales showing little change in the range of prices.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—The 1200 Southern cattle received today embraced some of the best kinds that have been here for about a year, a load of Oklahoman corn-fed yearlings selling at $5.35, with a number of sales at $4.25@4.50, and bulk of all the Texas and Oklahoma steers selling between $4 and $4.50. The market on all kinds of Southern cattle was about a dime under closing figures last week.

HOGS—A good moderate supply only was on sale, but the market opened slow and lower, the good hogs showng a loss of 10@15c, while the pigs and poor quality lights were 5@25c lower and very slow sale. The market was slow all day and closed with a good many poor grades unsold. The packers were very slow as they were asking for a big decline, which sellers were unwilling to grant. A few nice butcher hogs sold at $4.40, with a good many shippers at $4.35. Good packers sold at $4.30@4.35 and some pretty fair ones went at $4.25 and lass. A good many lights sold at $4@4.10, and pigs at $3.25@3.75.

SHEEP—The supply of sheep consisted principally of Colorado lambs and a few Western sheep. The market was weak to 10c lower than the close of last week. Several loads of Colorado lambs sold at $6.80 and Western ewes that were not very good brought $4.25. It was a good, active trade and the entire receipts were cleaned up early in the day and buyers would willingly have bought as many more.

HORSES AND MULES.—All classes of horses ruled on a lower basis in the auction today. While not as large as the decline on heavy horses, there is also a weaker undertone to the demand from the South. Clearance fairly good.

The mule situation is practically unchanged. Although selling was not brisk, negotiations were effected on a steady basis with last week's average. Total receipts of horses and mules for the week amounted to about 1500 head.

COTTON.

(Francis, Bro. & Co., 214 N. Fourth st.)
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10.

To have agreed with the closing quotations of the New York market of Saturday, the Liverpool market this morning should have opened at an advance of 2 to 3½ points on the near position and unchanged to 1 point higher on the late months. At the opening prices were 3 points better and the tone of the market was quiet. Cables at 12:15 (Liverpool time) reported an improvement from the opening and sales were being made at that time at a net advance of 2 to 3 points on the near positions and at an advance of 3 to 4½ points on the later options.

Sales of spot cotton were estimated at 7000 bales, of which 6000 bales were American cotton. Middling uplands quoted at 6.36, higher by 1 point.

New York market opened strong at an advance of from 2 to 4 points.

First sales as follows: March, 11.05; May, 11.15; July, 10.82.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

FRACTIONAL DROP IN WHEAT PRICES

News Almost Uniformly Bearish in Tone, Market Being Generally Depressed.

WAS NERVOUS AT TIMES

Corn Closed Weak, Oats Were Inactive—Cash Markets Rule Weaker.

Trading in local wheat was rather light Monday, and the news almost of a uniformly bearish character, but despite the general depression resulting therefrom, there were spasmodic attempts to support the market and the tone was very nervous throughout. Fluctuations, although not wide, were rapid, and the close ⅝@¾c lower for the day.

World's shipments of wheat were 12,096,000 bu, against 11,312,000 bu last week and 10,532,000 bu a year ago. Wheat and flour on ocean passage amounts to 42,160,000 bu, against 39,648,000 bu last week and 33,544,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of wheat decreased 435,000 bu and now amounts to 46,276,000 bu, against a decrease of 289,000 bu, with 44,568,000 bu a year ago.

All the arithmetic of the grain market except somewhat smaller receipts seemed to favor the bears at the start, world's shipments being larger than expected, and the further increase of 3,512,000 bu in afloat stocks attracting considerable attention. Lower prices abroad were also general, Liverpool closing 1⅜d to 1½d lower and Berlin 1¼c lower, though Budapest closed ¼c higher. There was some quite good buying, however, and the market was nervous early at levels about ⅜c lower, but offerings soon gained in numbers and quantity and prices sold down steadily. The buying came mostly from operators who were recently on the selling side and were covering short sales, and some demand was also said to have been caused by the early strength in corn. It was slyly intimated by some of the bears that this was the only feature in the market that anyone could buy on. The generally strained and unfavorable conditions in commercial circles were considered by many to warrant lower levels, and the depression was also added to by the continued flooding of Europe with wheat by Argentine. It was reported that c. i. f. parcels were being offered in Liverpool at 102c to 102⅜c, which was 3c to 4c below last week, and Australia was also freely offering at 102c. This effectually squelched any export demand for American wheat, and the business transacted was very small. Reports that excessively dry weather is causing uneasiness in Argentine attracted little attention.

May wheat opened ¼c to ⅜c lower at 97⅜c to 97⅝c, sold at 97⅜c, declined to 97¼c, fluctuated between 97¼c and 97⅝c, rallied to 98⅛c, declined to 97¼c, advanced to 97⅝c and later sold at 97½c. July wheat opened ⅜c lower at 90⅛c, advanced to 90⅜@90½c and declined to 90c.

Following is the official statement of the condition of winter wheat in France in February, 1908. One department reported excellent, 42 good, 41 fair, 1 poor. The area under wheat is 15,454,000 acres, against 16,126,000 acres last year, when the crop was 373,712,000 bu.

The cash market at Minneapolis was very dull, with No. 1 Northern ½c to 1c over May and No. 2 1c to 1½c under. Minneapolis cars were 338, against 378 last year, Duluth 58, against 32 last year and Winnipeg 192, against 88 last year.

The late trading was fairly active and prices nervous, though narrow. The market declined an additional fraction, then rallied slightly and the close was steady at a small fraction above the low point.

May wheat advanced to 97⅝c, sold down to 97@97⅛c, rallied to 97⅜c and closed at 97¼c bid. July wheat was bid for at 90⅛c, declined to 89⅝c, rallied to 89⅞c and closed at 89⅞@89⅞c sellers.

Cash wheat was in slow demand and weak.

Primary receipts of corn were 631,302 bu, with shipments of 318,363 bu, and local receipts were 57,000 bu, with shipments of 81,390 bu.

Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 266,000 bu.

Trading in corn was not particularly lively, but the market was unsettled and irregular. Cables on corn closed ⅜d lower, which, with the weakness in wheat, caused a ¼c lower opening, but some good buying developed on the unfavorable weather and rather bullish statistical news. Prices advanced sharply, but towards the latter part of the session sold down steadily and closed weak at the low point, ⅛@¼c to ⅜c down for the day. The shipping demand from the East was reported to be very slow.

World's shipments of corn were 2,478,000 bu, against 3,316,000 bu last week and 2,967,000 bu a year ago. Corn on ocean passage amounts to 8,792,000 bu, against 9,066,000 bu last week and 11,749,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of corn increased 1,584,000 bu and now amounts to 8,126,000 bu, against an increase of 885,000 bu, with 8,169,000 bu in sight at the same time last year.

Cash corn was in slow demand and ruled lower.

Primary receipts of corn were 568,820 bu, with shipments of 297,626 bu, and local receipts were 147,400 bu, with shipments of 62,170 bu.

Corn clearances were 154,000 bu.

There were no sales of oats and nominal quotations were ¼c lower. Cash oats were dull and weak. The visible supply of oats increased 42,000 bu. No oats was cleared from the seaboard today.

Primary receipts of oats were 544,673 bu, with shipments of 374,290 bu and local receipts were 128,000 bu, with shipments of 87,830 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts were 13,880 bbls; shipments, 14,400 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents, $4.65@4.90; straight, $4.40@4.50; extra medium grades, in jute, $3.40@3.75; hard jute sacks, patent, $4.50@4.80; straight, $4.30@4.40; clears, $3.75@4; low grade, $3.10@3.35; spring patents, $5@5.2.. in j....

HAY—Receipts, 700 tons local and 12.. tons through; shipments, 175 tons. Quote timothy, choice, $17@17.50; No. 1, $14.50@16.50; No. 2, $12@14; No. 3, $8@12; no grade, $5@7. Clover mixed, choice, $14; No. 1, $11.50@12; No. 2, $10@12; clover hay, No. 1, $13@13.50; No. 2, $10@12. Prairie hay—Choice, $12; No. 1, $10@11; No. 2, $9@10.

PATTEN AND ARMOUR IN FIGHT FOR MAY CORN

"Big Jim" Leads "Bulls" in Effort to Win Back Recent Wheat Losses.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—"Big Jim" Patten and J. Ogden Armour have engaged in a spectacular fight for supremacy in the corn pit. Patten again is the "big bull" in the May future. Armour is leading the bears.

Through this battle Patten hopes to recoup his losses in wheat and to take from Armour some of the million or so that financier gained in his recent bear raid.

Patten is not "long" as much as Armour is "short" in the market, but the following that trailed him in his wheat campaign still is standing by him.

His onslaughts threw the pit into a frenzy. So vast are the resources of both the leaders in the present battle that it promises to cost one side many thousands of dollars.

MAN AND WIFE, WEDDED 28 YEARS, DIE SAME DAY, THE HUSBAND PREDICTING END

August Damschroeder Is Stricken When Physician Says Helpmeet Cannot Live.

As August Damschroeder lay dying in his home at 2616 North Twenty-second street, one of his children began quietly to close the door into the next room, where his wife, Ida Damschroeder, had just died.

"Leave it open, Arthur," said the father with a smile. "We shall not be separated for long."

"Will Be Ready," He Said.

When an undertaker's assistant came to attend to Mrs. Damschroeder's body, the dying man, whom his children had thought to be unconscious, aroused himself for the last time and murmured:

"Don't let him go away. I will be ready for him in a little while."

Damschroeder died at 11:45 a. m. Sunday, hardly more than seven hours after the death of the wife, who had shared his life 28 years.

Damschroeder was stricken with pneumonia one week ago, a few hours after a physician had told him that Mrs. Damschroeder was suffering from a cancer of the stomach, and could not recover. He never had been sick abed before, and his wife had been free from disease until eight months ago. He was 53 years old, she 49.

A double funeral will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday from the home to Zion Lutheran Church, Twenty-first and Benton streets. Burial will be in New Bethlehem Cemetery.

The surviving sons and daughters are Arthur Damschroeder, 25 years old; Walter, 23; Mrs. Louise Meyer, who is mother of three little girls, and Edna and Evelyn Damschroeder.

Alleged Kidnapper on Trial.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—William Birmingham and Irene Alvina Jones were placed on trial in the Criminal Court here today on the charge of kidnaping Lillian Wulff, an 8-year-old child, from the home of her parents in Chicago last fall.

Woman's Nature

Is to love children, and no home can be completely happy without them, yet the ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass usually is so full of suffering, danger and fear that she looks forward to the critical hour with apprehension and dread. Mother's Friend, by its penetrating and soothing properties, allays nausea, nervousness, and all unpleasant feelings, and so prepares the system for the ordeal that she passes through the event safely and with but little suffering, as numbers have testified and said, "it is worth its weight in gold." $1.00 per bottle of druggists. 400 PLUMBERS OUT; 100 WORK AT OLD SCALE

Union Men Refuse to Accept Seventy-Cent Per Day Reduction.

All the union plumbers in St. Louis refused to go to work Monday under the new rules of the Master Plumbers' Association, which cut their wages from $5.70 to $5 a day.

In a few cases, the master plumbers put some of the union men back to work at the old scale, and those master plumbers not members of the association also employed men at the old scale. But not more than 100 of the 500 plumbers in St. Louis are at work.

Fifty Locked Out.

John Guheen, business agent of the plumbers' union, says only 150 union plumbers worked last week under the old scale. He estimates that about 50 have been locked out.

Charles Abel of the Abel & Gerhard Plumbing Co., president of the Master Plumbers' Association, was not at his office Monday, but another member of his firm said that the number of union plumbers at work was very small, to the best of his knowledge.

"There are none at work here," he said, "and I have only heard of one other big firm that is still paying the old scale. This is an emergency case. And I think that in the cases where the old scale is still being paid, it will be for a day or two only."

Old Rate Still Paid.

Business Agent Guheen says there are a half-dozen large shops which are still paying the old rate.

"All that have any work on hand know they must pay the old scale to get it done," says Guheen. "Those who have no work, of course, can afford to do all the talking they like. Business has been dull lately, anyhow, and only a small number of plumbers have been regularly employed."

A meeting of the Master Plumbers' Association will be held Monday night at Bowman's Hall, Eleventh and Locust streets.

The journeymen say they have not called any meeting to consider the situation, as they have made up their minds not to accept the reduction.

Dies Week After Employer.

Louis Leeker, a hostler at Pahlmann Bros.' livery stable at 2863 Easton avenue, dropped dead there at 7:30 a. m. Monday. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause. His body was taken to his home at 2835 Easton avenue. Leeker's employer, William Pahlmann, to whom he was greatly attached, died a week ago.

Washington's Autograph Found.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A document bearing the signature of George Washington has been found in the Essex County Courthouse. It is a certificate that Col. Frances Barber, commandant of the Second New Jersey Regiment in the Revolutionary War was killed Feb. 11, 1783, and it is said to be an unusually good specimen of Washington's autograph.

BOY IN TEENS ENDS LIFE BECAUSE LOSS OF FOOT SPOILS ALL OF HIS FUN

Leaves Note for Mother Saying "Something Funny Buzzes in Head."

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Because he could not go out and skate and slide with the other boys of his age, Freddie Rosa, 16 year sold, of Passaic, N. J., shot and killed himself today.

The boy fell from a Lackawana freight train last June and lost a foot. He hobbled about on crutches and his only hope in life seemed to be that he would have an artificial leg in time. Saturday his mother left him alone in the house. When she returned he was dead. He left this note:

"Mother: I am tired of living. All the other boys are having fun and I ain't. My leg hurts me. Something funny buzzes in my head. Good-by, mamma. I killed myself; it wasn't anyone else."

Physician, Ill, Kills Himself.

The fact that he was a sufferer from locomotor ataxia is given by relatives as the only probable reason for the suicide of Dr. Oscar L. Bumiller, a dentist at 2013 Arsenal street, who was found dead in his room by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Bumiller, after he had drunk carbolic acid, mixed with whisky.

HEIRS OF MARSHALL FIELD TO PAY $1,000,000 BACK TAXES

Cook County in Settlement of Suit Makes Estate a Present of $730,000.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The trustees of the Marshall Field estate and the County Attorney have agreed upon a settlement of $1,000,000 in full satisfaction of the claims of the county concerning back taxes on a list of unassessed securities scheduled in the Probate Court after the death of Marshall Field in January, 1906.

The settlement ends a suit for $1,730,000 filed by the County Attorney in the Superior Court in May, 1907. The suit followed the discovery that the inventory of the estate contained many securities acquired in 1900 or later and never listed for assessment by Mr Field. The taxes amounted to $1,300,000. A penalty of 10 per cent, which the Illinois statutes require on unlisted personal property, was demanded in addition.

This penalty, amounting to $430,000, was the chief item of contention in the suit.

Salaries Cut Ten Per Cent.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 10.—A 10-per-cent cut in salaries of officials and employes of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad Co. has been ordered.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The Great Restorative Non-Alcoholic Tonic

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition.

There are no secrets---all its ingredients being printed on the bottle wrappers.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only builds up the strength of the feeble, debilitated, languid, nervous and easily fatigued, whether young or aged, but it enriches and purifies the blood, thus making the improvement lasting.

It corrects and overcomes indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, torpid liver, chronic diarrhea and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bronchial, throat and laryngeal affections, attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, and all manner of catarrhal affections are cured by the "Golden Medical Discovery."

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old, obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. The Salve can be had of druggists, or will be sent by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short, "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret Medicine of Known Composition.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Advisor (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to cover cost of mailing) for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

THE marriage of Mrs. Anita Glasgow O'Fallon and Mr. William S. McChesney will be celebrated at Bofinger Memorial Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. William Glasgow O'Fallon, Mr. John Julius O'Fallon and Mr. Samuel Parker McChesney will attend their parents. Dean Carroll Davis will read the ceremony. No guests but the very near relatives and intimate friends will witness the ceremony and attend the reception that will follow at the home of the bride, 4202 West Pine boulevard. The bride will be gowned in lavender satin, trimmed in a deeper shade of the same color. She will wear a small hat to correspond and carry a big bouquet of white and lavender lilacs. Mr. McChesney and his bride will depart the same evening for the East, where they will spend the early days of their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at 4202 West Pine boulevard until April.

THE St. Louis Woman's Club has issued cards for two delightful entertainments. The first will be a vaudeville performance on Feb. 14, when some of the best local talent will contribute to the entertainment. The second will be an evening piano recital by Mme. Olgo Samaroff at 8 o'clock Monday evening, Feb. 17. The recital will be followed by a reception.

The Waterman avenue residence of Mrs. Fred L. Smith was the scene of one of the largest receptions given this season. The affair was given by Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Louis Barklage for their sister and her husband, Count and Countess Centenini, the latter Mme. Jane Noria, a daughter of the late Dr. Charles Ludwig and Mrs. Ludwig. The appointments were very simple, the hostesses thus carrying out the wish expressed by the guest of honor. Pink roses and carnations in clusters decorated the drawing room, where the receiving party, which included Count Centenini, stood. The guest of honor wore a splendid afternoon Paris gown with diamonds. Mrs. Smith was in marechal neil rose duchess satin, with transparent yoke and sleeves of rose point lace. Mrs. Barklage was in an empire gown of heavy white brocade satin embroidered in seed pearls and trimmed with point lace. Mme. Noria and her sisters made an attractive picture as they welcomed their guests, many of whom Mme. Noria has not seen since girlhood and others not since she has won fame by her beautiful voice. She has a charming personality, is a brilliant brunette, thus contrasting decidedly with her sisters, who are decidedly fair. The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock, and during that time about five hundred guests called. The guests who assisted in serving and looking to the comfort of the guests were: Mrs. Henry Weber, Mrs. Louis Barklage, Mrs. Rudolph Limberg, Mrs. Mollie F. Gianini, Mrs. Edward Barklage, Mrs. Otillie Krausnick, Mrs. Josephine Erker, Mrs Frank Everts, Mrs. Frank Mesker, Mrs. Louis Idler, Mrs. Mildred Yerger, Mrs. Julius Rombauer, Mrs. Bert Culver, Mrs. Walter Petring, Miss Vera Gianini, Miss Edith Barklage, Miss Pauline Rehbein.

Miss Hazel Ziegler of 3533 Halliday avenue will entertain her club with a heart party Friday evening, Feb. 14.

The marriage of Miss Ella Schneidt and Mr. Rudolph Kreen will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Schneidt, 3922 California avenue, at 7 o'clock. After a fortnight the bride and bridegroom will depart for New York, their future home.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. John Coleman, 2722 Dayton street, by a party of his friends. Those present were:

Miss Altha Maud Ford of 2923 Barrett street has returned home after spending eight months in Canada visiting friends.

Miss May Forrestal of Buffalo, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. John Loy, 2000 Rutger street, for a few weeks.

Mrs. W. J. Gundelach gave a reception Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock for her sister, Mrs. Otto Gerdau of New York. Mrs. Gundelach's home, 4477 Washington boulevard, was handsomely decorated with pink carnations and roses. The table in the dining room was made attractive by a pink rose centerpiece with pink canopied tapers and bon bons.

Mrs. Charles Ehlerman assisted her daughter, also Mrs. J. G. Ehrhardt, in receiving. Miss Helen Teasdale, Miss Edith Gundelach, Miss Elsie Hospes, Miss Hildegard Wiederholdt and Mrs. Phil Chew served and assisted in entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Citelson arrived at Hotel Del Coronado Jan. 30 and took apartments for a midwinter visit at Coronado Beach.

Miss Dove Stewart of 4157 Morgan street has sent out cards for a "500" party to be given Thursday, Feb. 13.

M. A. Bayes is a guest at Hotel Del Coronado, Coronado Beach, Cal.

A surprise party was given to Edward Meier Jr. of 1908 Arsenal street Saturday. Following guests and members of the Carnation Club were present:

Hydrophoobia Menaces New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The health authorities announce that there are at least 50 cases of hydrophobia being treated in New York. There has been an unusual number of cases of this disease in the city for the last two years, and fears are entertained that the city is threatened with epidemic.
